

SNEAKERDOG'S PHASES OF MITOSIS WORKSHEET

Cut out around the cell drawings. As you read in your textbook about cell reproduction, arrange the drawings in sequence, so that the illustrations represent the correct order of the phases of mitosis: Prophase, Metaphase, Anaphase, and Telophase (PMAT). Cut out the four labels. When you know you have placed the drawings in the correct order, glue the cell drawings onto piece of paper, so that you have a mini-poster of mitosis. Glue each label under the correct illustration for the name of the phase. Label the chromatin, centrioles, chromosomes, spindle fibers, sister chromatids, and centromeres. Take your poster and display it near your bed. Then you can dream about the amazing phases of mitosis!
