Too Close to Ignore Mark Moran, Jodie Curth-Bibb, 2020-03-31 Less than five kilometres from Australia's most northern islands in the Torres Strait lies the southern coast of Papua New Guinea PNG The people living on the PNG side of the border along the South Fly coast live in abject poverty with a near total absence of services and infrastructure The disparity in income housing and health outcomes when compared with their nearby neighbours and relatives in the Torres Strait Islands is extreme The border is the focus of a range of interventions by the Australian and Queensland governments including border protection quarantine marine resource management and infectious disease control including an alarming outbreak of multi drug resistant tuberculosis Restrictions are increasing on trading fishing and access to Australian services However questions remain as to whether this focus is having unintended consequences increasing the destitution and frustration on the PNG side in turn exacerbating the security threat to Australia And as the Australian border hardens the Indonesian border beckons This book presents the results of three years of research into the unique social and political geography of the borderland The Torres Strait Treaty between Australia and PNG serves to construct a complex institutional layering a tiered economy and a hierarchy of identities between those South Fly villagers who have rights under the Treaty to travel into Australia and those who do not This creates a politics of expectation and frustration that permeates everyday life along the South Fly coast through which development projects must navigate

Collecting Activism, Archiving Occupy Wall Street Kylie Message, 2019-09-10 Collecting Activism Archiving Occupy Wall Street explores the material collections produced by participants of Occupy Wall Street in 2011 that bear witness to the experience and agency of the 99% Examining processes of collection development as a lens through which to investigate the sociology of protest and reform movements the book questions what contribution a dual study of the material culture of dissent and the production of a collection hosting the material culture of dissent might offer to a range of disciplines and practices It asks if and how a collections based study can test the propositions tactics and limits of activism from archival museological and political perspectives Collecting Activism Archiving Occupy Wall Street draws from interdisciplinary fields including museum studies collection studies archive studies cultural studies and public history It will be a valuable resource for scholars and practitioners engaged with contemporary cause based collecting activist archiving public history and the cultural politics and sociology of social reform movements It models strategies for activating historical archives and collections based data and for engaging with autoethnographic records to represent and analyze the material residue of protest and reform movements today

Accomplishing Climate Governance Harriet Bulkeley, 2015-09-25 This book provides a new approach to thinking about the politics and geographies of climate governance It argues that in order to understand the nature and potential of the range of new responses to climate change emerging at multiple scales we need to examine how governance is accomplished how it is undertaken practised and contested Through a range of case studies drawn from communities corporations and local government the book examines how climate change comes to be governed and made to matter as an issue with which diverse publics should be concerned It concludes that rather than seeking the solution to climate change once and for all we need to engage with the ways in which we can channel our intentions to ameliorate the climate problem to more progressive ends The book will be of interest to researchers advanced students and policy makers across the social sciences

Australia and China Perspectives on Urban Regeneration and Rural Revitalization Raffaele Pernice, Bing Chen, 2024-04-30 This edited volume reviews important

Professional Uncertainty, Knowledge and Relationship in the Classroom Joseph Mintz, 2014-06-27 The extent to which teachers should make use of theoretical and expert knowledge as opposed to tacit experiential knowledge and how these might be combined is a perennial issue in discussions on pedagogy This book addresses these debates through a creative development of the concept of productive uncertainty Using case studies focusing on teachers working with children with autism a particularly fertile crucible for considering uncertainty the book explores how the radical 20th century psychoanalyst Wilfred Bion's epistemological approach to uncertainty can be used to re frame Donald Schön's concept of reflection in action offering a new perspective on the practice of teachers and other caring professionals Several areas of potential uncertainty are identified including uncertainty relating to areas of practice including diagnosis the relationship between expert knowledge and practice the implications of autism for autonomy and agency and uncertainties in relation to the understanding of and use of new technologies A strong argument is made based on both theoretical and empirical grounds that in juggling between theoretical and tacit knowledge in the classroom there is more to be gained by staying with the struggle with uncertainty than by fleeing from it too early into the promise of expert solutions Consideration is also given to the relative importance of specific theoretical training for teachers both in general and in relation to working with children with special educational needs in the context of international and UK policy developments in this area This book will be of key value to researchers and postgraduates in the fields of education studies teacher thinking and research psychoanalytically informed psychosocial studies as well as to practitioners working in special educational needs autism education

Changing Lanes Joseph F.C. Dimento, Cliff Ellis, 2014-08-29 The story of the evolution of the urban freeway the competing visions that informed it and the emerging alternatives for more sustainable urban transportation Urban freeways often cut through the heart of a city destroying neighborhoods displacing residents and reconfiguring street maps These massive infrastructure projects costing billions of dollars in transportation funds have been shaped for the last half century by the ideas of highway engineers urban planners landscape architects and architects with highway engineers playing the leading role In Changing Lanes Joseph DiMento and Cliff Ellis describe the evolution of the urban freeway in the United States from its rural parkway precursors through the construction of the interstate highway system to emerging alternatives for more sustainable urban transportation DiMento and Ellis describe controversies that arose over urban freeway construction focusing on three cases Syracuse which early on embraced freeways through its center Los Angeles which rejected some routes and then built I 105 the most expensive urban road of its time and Memphis which blocked the construction of I 40 through its core Finally they consider the emerging urban highway removal movement and other innovative efforts by cities to re envision urban transportation
