The Influence of Teacher-Student Relationships and Feedback on Students' Engagement with Learning Roger Wood, 2018-06-11 This book presents a potential hierarchy between the three basic psychological needs central to Self Determination Theory SDT Findings from the author s research suggest that the motivation to exercise autonomy is an outcome that is cumulatively influenced by the perceived quality of the teacher student relationship and students perceived competence within specific learning contexts and with a specific teacher These findings are the basis for three hypotheses regarding students motivation to engage with learning activities The first is that perceived competence is informed by and reciprocally informs the quality of the teacher student relationship The second is that students perceived competence and the quality of the teacher student relationship have a combined impact upon students autonomous motivation The final posit is that a teacher can be autonomy supportive both prior to and during activities where students have opportunities to exercise their autonomy Such autonomy support includes the influence of teacher feedback upon students perceived competence and their subsequent motivation to autonomously engage with learning activities This research begins to unravel such motivational interplay through an SDT informed model which is used as the basis for discussing the specific influence of teacher feedback and autonomy support upon students engagement with learning activities in formal learning settings The findings and model are worthy of further testing and development as part of the wider agenda of student engagement wellbeing and positive psychology prevalent in educational research education psychology and the philosophy of social motivation Planning and Design for Sustainable Urban Mobility

Un-Habitat,2013-10-30 Urban transport systems worldwide are faced by a multitude of challenges Among the most visible of these are the traffic gridlocks experienced on city roads and highways all over the world The prescribed solution to transport problems in most cities has thus been to build more infrastructures for cars with a limited number of cities improving public transport systems in a sustainable manner However a number of challenges faced by urban transport systems such as greenhouse gas emissions noise and air pollution and road traffic accidents do not necessarily get solved by the construction of new infrastructure Planning and Design for Sustainable Urban Mobility argues that the development of sustainable urban transport systems requires a conceptual leap The purpose of transportation and mobility is to gain access to destinations activities services and goods Thus access is the ultimate objective of transportation As a result urban planning and design should focus on how to bring people and places together by creating cities that focus on accessibility rather than simply increasing the length of urban transport infrastructure or increasing the movement of people or goods Urban form and the functionality of the city are therefore a major focus of this report which highlights the importance of integrated land use and transport planning This new report of the United Nations Human Settlements Programme UN Habitat the world s leading authority on urban issues provides some thought provoking insights and policy recommendations on how to plan and design sustainable urban mobility systems The Global Report on Human Settlements is the most authoritative and up to date global assessment of human settlements conditions and trends Preceding issues of the report have addressed such topics as Cities in a Globalizing World The Challenge of Slums Financing Urban Shelter Enhancing Urban Safety and Security Planning Sustainable Cities and Cities and Climate Change Kenya Gazette ,1974-06-28 The Kenya Gazette is an official

Hallgrímsdóttir,2021-11-24 This book is a case study collection examining the influences and functions of British Columbia s

BC borders in the 21st century British Columbia's Borders in Globalization examines bordering processes and the causes and effects of borders in the Cascadian region from the perspective of BC. The chapters cover diverse topics including historical border disputes and cannabis culture and identity, the governance of transboundary water flows, migration and preclearance policies for goods and people, and the emerging issue of online communities. The case studies provide examples that highlight the simultaneous but contradictory trends regarding borders in BC while boundaries and bordering processes at the external borders shift away from the territorial boundary lines. Self-determination, local politics, and cultural identities re-inscribe internal boundaries and borders that are both virtual and real. Moreover, economic protectionism, racial discourses, and xenophobic narratives driven by advances in technology reinforce the territorial dimensions of borders. These case studies contribute to the literature challenging the notion that territorial borders are sufficient for understanding how borders function in BC, and in a few instances they illustrate the nuanced ways in which borders or bordering processes are becoming detached from territory. The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of the Journal of Borderlands Studies.
