Peacekeeping and the International System Norrie MacQueen, 2006-10-16 A comprehensive text on the history and politics of peacekeeping primarily in the post World War Two period but dealing also with pre 1939 precursors While it will deal principally with operations undertaken by the United Nations it will also One Hundred Days of Silence Jared A. Cohen, 2006-12-28 One Hundred Days of Silence is an important investigation into the 1994 Rwandan genocide and American foreign policy During one hundred days of spring eight hundred thousand Rwandan Tutsis and sympathetic Hutus were slaughtered in one of the most atrocious events of the twentieth century Drawing on declassified documents and testimony of policy makers Jared Cohen critically reconstructs the historical account of tacit policy that led to nonintervention His analysis examines the questions of what the United States knew about the genocide and how the world's most powerful nation turned a blind eye The study reveals the ease at which an administration can not only fail to intervene but also silence discussion of the crisis The book argues that despite the extent of the genocide the American government was not motivated to act due to a lack of economic interest With precision and passion One Hundred Days of Silence frames the debate surrounding this controversial history An Introduction to the Criminology of Genocide William R. Pruitt, 2021-01-15 This textbook provides an accessible and interdisciplinary introduction to genocide with an emphasis on the criminal aspect of genocide. It draws on sociological, political, and historical concepts to discuss how they contribute to our understanding of genocide as an international crime. It walks students through the evolution of genocide as a criminal act and the legal responses available, using case studies to demonstrate how concepts work in action. It combines Criminology and Law, arguing that Criminology can help explain the why and how while Law can explain the responses to crime. This textbook includes a chapter on genocide denial as well as discussion questions at the end of the chapters, boxed examples, and further reading. It speaks to students in Criminology, Law, Socio-Legal Studies, and beyond, as well as to practitioners in the criminal justice field. The Video Librarian, 2005 Cinematic Social Studies William B. Russell, Stewart Waters, 2017-01-01 Action Film is a common and powerful element in the social studies classroom, and Cinematic Social Studies explores teaching and learning social studies with film. Teaching with film is a prominent teaching strategy utilized by many teachers on a regular basis. Cinematic Social Studies moves readers beyond the traditional perceptions of teaching film and explores the vast array of ideas and strategies related to teaching social studies with film. The contributing authors of this volume seek to explain through an array of ideas and visions what cinematic social studies can and should look like while providing research and rationales for why teaching social studies with film is valuable and important. This volume includes twenty-four scholarly chapters discussing relevant topics of importance to cinematic social studies. The twenty-four chapters are divided into three sections. This stellar collection of writings includes contributions from noteworthy scholars like Keith Barton, Wayne Journell, James Damico, Cynthia Tyson, and many more. A Practice of Ethics for Global Politics Jack L. Amoureux, 2015-10-05 What kind of ethics in world politics is possible if there is no foundation for moral knowledge or global reality is at least complex and contingent. Furthermore, how can an ethics grapple with difference, a persistent and confounding feature for global politics? This book responds to the call for a bold and creative approach to ethics that avoids assuming or aspiring to universality and instead prioritizes difference, complexity, and uncertainty by turning to reflexivity, not as method or methodology but as a practice of ethics for politics. This practice of ethical reflexivity offers individuals, organizations, and communities tools to recognize, interrogate, and potentially change the stories they tell about politics, about constraints, notions of responsibility, and visions of desirability. The benefits and limits of ethical reflexivity are investigated by the author, who engages writing on critique, rhetoric, affect, and relationality and carefully considers dominant and alternative framings of difficult issues in International Relations (IR): the 1994 genocide in Rwanda and the US policies of enhanced interrogation and drone strikes. This path-breaking study provokes new possibilities for agency and action and contributes to a growing literature in IR on reflexivity by uniquely elaborating its promise as an ethics for politics and by drawing on thinkers less utilized in discussions of reflexivity, such as Hannah Arendt, Michel Foucault, and Aristotle. This book will appeal to scholars and upper-level graduates in several sub-fields of IR, including

Dangerous Surrender dares readers to go deeper with God and his purposes on earth On Not Looking Frances Guerin, 2015-01-09 On Not Looking The Paradox of Contemporary Visual Culture focuses on the image and our relationship to it as a site of not looking The collection demonstrates that even though we live in an image saturated culture many images do not look at what they claim viewers often do not look at the images and in other cases we are encouraged by the context of exhibition not to look at images Contributors discuss an array of images photographs films videos press images digital images paintings sculptures and drawings from everyday life museums and galleries and institutional contexts such as the press and political arena The themes discussed include politics of institutional exhibition and perception of images censored repressed and banned images transformations to practices of not looking as a result of new media interventions images in
