LOITASA Research in Progress Birgit Brock-Utne, Zubeida Desai, Martha A. S. Qorro, 2005 Handbook of Literacy in Diglossia and in Dialectal Contexts Elinor Saiegh-Haddad, Lior Laks, Catherine McBride, 2022-03-14 This volume is the first published collection of papers on the impact of diglossia and dialectal variations on language and literacy acquisition impairment and education. The authors are pioneering in this field and are leading researchers with substantial experience in conducting research in this area. A wide range of areas and languages are covered including the US South Africa Israel and various European countries. The chapters present novel data and insights regarding the role of dialectal variations on language and literacy from a wide range of countries and perspectives. These insights have significant theoretical and practical implications. A majority of literacy learners worldwide are taught to read and write in a language variety or a dialect that is not the same as their spoken language. Not only is this the global norm but it is probably also the greatest obstacle to literacy learning. This volume is the first published collection of papers on the role of dialect in language and literacy acquisition impairment and education in a variety of languages and situations across Europe the Middle East North America Africa and Asia. The authors are pioneers in this field. Postcolonial Polysystems Haidee Kruger, 2012 Postcolonial Polysystems: The Production and Reception of Translated Children's Literature in South Africa is an original and provocative contribution to the field of children's literature research and translation studies. It draws on a variety of methodologies to provide a perspective both product and process oriented on the ways in which translation contributes to the production of children's literature in South Africa with a special interest in language and power as well as post and neocolonial hybridity. The book explores the forces that affect the use of translation in producing children's literature in various languages in South Africa and shows how some of these forces precipitate in the selection production and reception of translated children's books in Afrikaans and English. It breaks new ground in its interrogation of aspects of translation theory within the multilingual and postcolonial context of South Africa as well as in its innovative experimental investigation of the reception of domesticating and foreignising strategies in translated picture books. The book has won the 2013 EST Young Scholar Prize.

Language of Instruction in Tanzania and South Africa - Highlights from a Project, 2010-01-01 This book is based on chapters in a series of four books from the first five years 2002-2006 of the Language of Instruction in Tanzania and South Africa LOITASA project. LOITASA is a NUFU funded Norwegian University Fund project which began in January 2002 and will continue through to the end of 2011. The chapters reflect the state of the research at the end of the first five years of LOITASA in 2006 and were selected by reviewers independent of the project. The selection of chapters brought together bring to the forefront the dilemmas facing developing countries as they seek to position themselves in an increasingly interconnected global system while at the same time maintaining a sense of national and regional identity. The chapters in this collection reflect both positive outcomes when the medium of instruction is a widely known language as well as the challenges of mother tongue instruction in countries where historically a powerful language like English has dominated The four LOITASA books in this series from which the chapters in this book are drawn are Language of instruction in Tanzania and South Africa LOITASA published by E Zubeida Desai the South African project leader and Martha Qorro who is on the project steering committee in Tanzania

Primary Education in Crisis Brahm Fleisch, 2008 In the past decade the national preoccupation has been on the crisis in secondary schools Lurking behind the intractable problem of low pass rates the dysfunctional schools and the small number of higher grade mathematics and science graduates is the calamity in primary education Drawing on the work of researchers in a range of fields including psychology sociology anthropology linguistics economics the health sciences and mathematics education this book documents the depth and scope of the primary education crisis and provides a comprehensive and rigorous explanation of its causes Primary education in crisis pulls together the wealth of research on health poverty resources language and teaching as factors in academic achievement in reading writing and mathematics At the centre of the book is an analysis of the published studies that systematically document what teachers teach and fail to teach and why it is that teaching is at the heart of the crisis in primary education The author suggests that there are no quick fixes but only hard choices and that for reform to succeed it must be evidence based

English-Medium Instruction and Translinguaging BethAnne Paulsrud, Zhongfeng Tian, Jeanette Toth, 2021-01-20 This book offers a critical exploration of definitions methodologies and ideologies of English medium instruction EMI contributing to new understandings of translinguaging as theory and pedagogy across diverse contexts It brings together a number of conceptual and empirical studies on translinguaging in EMI at different educational levels in a variety of countries with different approaches to translinguaging different named languages and different policies These studies include several underrepresented contexts across the globe providing a broad view of how translinguaging in EMI is understood in these educational settings Furthermore this book addresses the complexities of translinguaging through a discussion of the affordances and constraints associated with the use of multiple linguistic resources in the EMI classroom

Language in Epistemic Access Caroline Kerfoot, Anne-Marie Simon-Vandenberg, 2018-07-26 This book focuses on how to address persistent linguistically structured inequalities in education primarily in relation to South African schools but also in conversation with Australian work and with resonances for other multilingual contexts around the world The book as a whole lays bare the tension between the commitment to multilingualism enshrined in the South African Constitution and language in education policy and the realities of the dominance of English and the virtual absence of indigenous African languages in current educational practices It suggests that dynamic plurilingual pedagogies can be allied with the explicit scaffolding of genre based pedagogies to help redress asymmetries in epistemic access and to re imagine policies pedagogies and practices more in tune with the realities of multilingual classrooms The contributions to this book offer complementary insights on routes to improving access to school knowledge especially for learners whose home language or language variety is different to that of teaching and learning at school All subscribe to similar ideologies which include the view that multilingualism should be seen as a resource rather than a problem in education Commentaries on these chapters highlight evidence based high impact educational responses and suggest that translinguaging and genre may well offer opportunities for students to expand their linguistic repertoires and to bridge epistemological differences between community and school This book was originally published as a special issue of Language and Education
