Revisited Jon Lang,Walter Moleski,2016-12-05 A range of current approaches to architecture are neglected in our contemporary writings on design philosophies This book argues that the model of function and the concept of a functional building that we have inherited from the twentieth century Modernists is limited in scope and detracts from a full understanding of the purposes served by the built environment It simply does not cover the range of functions that buildings can afford nor is it tied in a conceptually clear manner to our contemporary concepts of architectural theory Based on Abraham Maslow s theory of human motivations and following on from Lang s widely used text Creating Architectural Theory The Role of the Behavioral Sciences in Environmental Design Lang and Moleski here propose a new model of functionalism that responds to numerous observations on the inadequacy of current ways of thinking about functionalism in architecture and urban design Copiously illustrated the book puts forward this model and then goes on to discuss in detail each function of buildings and urban environments Contemporary Street Arts in Europe S. Haedicke,2012-11-28 Street theatre invades a public space shakes it up and disappears but the memory of the disruption haunts the site for audiences who experience it This book looks at how the dynamic interrelationship of performance participant and place creates a politicized aesthetic of public space that enables the public to rehearse democratic practices Artistic Approaches to Cultural Mapping Nancy Duxbury,W.F. Garrett-Petts,Alys Longley,2018-09-03 Making space for imagination can shift research and community planning from a reflective stance to a future forming orientation and practice Cultural mapping is an emerging discourse of collaborative community based inquiry and advocacy This book looks at artistic approaches to cultural mapping focusing on imaginative cartography It emphasizes the importance of creative process that engages with the felt sense of community experiences an element often missing from conventional mapping practices International artistic contributions in this book reveal the creative research practices and languages of artists a prerequisite to understanding the multi modal interface of cultural mapping The book examines how contemporary artistic approaches can challenge conventional asset mapping by animating and honouring the local giving voice and definition to the vernacular or recognizing the notion of place as inhabited by story and history It explores the processes of seeing and listening and the importance of the aesthetic as a key component of community self expression and self representation Innovative contributions in this book champion inclusion and experimentation expose unacknowledged power relations and catalyze identity formation through multiple modes of artistic representation and performance It will be a valuable resource for individuals involved with creative research methods performance and cultural mapping as well as social and urban planning
