Africa 2015 Promise and Performance OECD,United Nations Economic Commission for Africa,2015-11-03 In order to maintain the strong progress achieved since 2000 and meet Africa s longer term challenges it is important for both African governments and their international partners to meet their development commitments and to monitor and evaluate their results Women, Literature and Development in Africa Anthonia C. Kalu,2019-12-09 This book is a powerful exploration of the role of women in the evolution of African thinking and narratives on development from the precolonial period right through to the modern day Whilst the book identifies women s oppression and marginalization as significant challenges to contemporary Africa s advancement it also explores how new written narratives draw on traditional African knowledge systems to bring deep rooted and sometimes radical approaches to progress The book asserts that Africans must tell their own stories expressed through the complex meanings and nuances of African languages and often conveyed through oral traditions and storytelling in which women play an important role The book s close examination of language and meaning in the African narrative tradition advances the illumination and elevation of African storytelling as part of a viable and valid knowledge base in its own right rather than as an extension of European paradigms and methods Anthonia C Kalu s new edition of this important book fully revised throughout will also include fresh analysis of the role of digital media education and religion in African narratives At a time when the prominence and participation of African women in development and sociopolitical debates is growing this book s exploration of their lived experiences and narrative contribution will be of interest to students of African literature gender studies development history and sociology The Rise of the African Novel Mukoma Wa Ngugi, 2018-03-27 The Rise of the African Novel is the first book to situate South African and African language literature of the late 1880s through the early 1940s in relation to the literature of decolonization that spanned the 1950s through the 1980s and the contemporary generation of established and emerging continental and diaspora African writers of international renown. Calling it a major crisis in African literary criticism, Mukoma Wa Ngugi considers key questions around the misreading of African literature: Why did Chinua Achebe's generation privilege African literature in English despite the early South African example? What are the costs of locating the start of Africa's literary tradition in the wrong literary and historical period? What does it mean for the current generation of writers and scholars of African literature not to have an imaginative consciousness of their literary past? While acknowledging the importance of Achebe's generation in the African literary tradition, Mukoma Wa Ngugi challenges that narrowing of the identities and languages of the African novel and writer. In restoring the missing foundational literary period to the African literary tradition, he shows how early South African literature in both aesthetics and politics is in conversation with the literature of the African independence era and contemporary rooted transnational literatures. This book will become a foundational text in African literary studies as it raises questions about the very nature of African literature and criticism. It will be essential reading for scholars of African literary studies as well as general readers seeking a greater understanding of African literary history and the ways in which critical consensus can be manufactured and rewarded at the expense of a larger and historical literary tradition. 2009 Proceedings: 100th Annual Convention of Rotary International ,

Anglophone African Detective Fiction 1940-2020 Matthew J. Christensen, 2024 Providing a survey of Anglophone African detective fiction from the late 1940s to the present day, this study traces its history both as a literary form and a mode of critical exploration of the fraught sovereignties of the African state and its citizens. Since the late 1940s, African writers including Cyprian Ekwensi, Arthur Maimane, Adaora Lily Ulasi, Hilary Ngweni, Unity Dow, Parker Bilal, and Angela Makholwa have published over 200 murder mysteries, police procedurals, spy thrillers, and other fictional narratives of investigation and discovery in English language newspapers, magazines, and novels. Distributed widely across the continent's diverse cultural and political geographies, these texts share aesthetic characteristics and thematic preoccupations that reflect transnational networks of production, circulation, and influence. Anglophone African Detective Fiction 1940-2020 surveys this literary history and examines how African writers have repeatedly harnessed the detective story to interrogate postcolonial realities of selfhood and the state. It argues that African writers have turned the detective story into a highly productive, while at the same time suspense-filled and entertaining mode of social and political critique: first of colonialism and the independence era, and latterly of neoliberal governance. Offering an overview of paradigmatic texts from Ghana to Kenya and Sudan to South Africa, the book traces the contours of the history of Anglophone African detective fiction that is at once a cultural history of a uniquely African assessment of the ongoing problematics of sovereignty and decolonization. The Future of Employment in Africa Loic De Canniere, 2025-06-10 The Future of Employment in Africa Demography Labour Markets and Welfare explores the major trends that will define the face of the sub Saharan continent in the next three decades The near doubling of Africa's population by 2050 will lead to more than twenty million new job seekers entering the African labour market every year until then Right now Africa doesn't seem armed to offer jobs to this many people resulting in possible unrest and intra African or intercontinental migration flows including to Europe Climate change creates additional migratory pressure as it threatens the future of agriculture and livestock The author explores the opportunities for increased job creation in Africa Work provides income and decent and meaningful jobs contribute to prospects and social stability The evolution of the labour market is essential for the continent's future Fortunately Africa has some major strengths The continent has the youngest population in the world and represents a wealth of creativity and innovation Moreover Africans excel in market creating innovation the ability to see market opportunities and innovations that others do not Africans create their own jobs through micro and small enterprises A young well trained middle class familiar with digital technologies is emerging Africa's abundant natural resources also attract global regional powers aspiring to secure access to critical raw materials something the continent can use to its own advantage Special attention goes to the European Union's Africa policy the book takes a critical look at the European Union's intentions and approach and formulates recommendations to the European Commission The author combines economic analysis with stories from twenty five years of experience with impact investments in Africa He challenges the typical pessimistic stereotypes about the continent and provides an optimistic vision of Africa's future

War of Intervention in Angola Adrien Fontanellaz, Tom Cooper, José Augusto Matos, 2023-06-30 Through late 1987 and early 1988 the battlefields of southern Angola moved ever further away from the border with South West Africa Namibia until the showdown between the Soviet and Cuban supported government in Luanda and South African supported insurgency of UNITA culminated in the controversial and still much disputed Battle of Cuito Cuanavale During this period Angolan and Cuban airpower slowly grew to a point where it outmatched the SAAF in turn limiting the freedom of movement of the SADF and UNITA ground forces and reducing their operations to attritional battles with little chance of achieving major victories on terms acceptable to the government in Pretoria As the changing political climate between East and West and in Africa began to bring about an end to the South African intervention in Angola and the occupation of South West Africa Namibia the government of Angola was able to switch its attentions to dealing with UNITA Volume 5 of War of Intervention in Angola examines in detail this final period of Cuban involvement in the long and tragic civil war that ruined Angola between 1975 and 1992 While the emphasis is upon the operations of the Angolan and Cuban air forces it also details how these impacted upon the ground operations of all parties This volume is richly illustrated with original photographs of the forces involved specially commissioned maps of the ground operations and a range of full color artworks

Being and Becoming African as a Permanent Work in Progress B. Nyamnjoh, U. Nwosu, 2021-06-09 This book is a timely addition to debates and explorations on the epistemological relevance of African proverbs especially with growing calls for the decolonisation of African curricula The editors and contributors have chosen to reflect on the diverse ways of being and becoming African as a permanent work in progress by drawing inspiration from Chinua Achebe's harnessing of the effectualness of oratory especially his use of proverbs in his works The book recognises and celebrates the fact that Achebe's proverbial Igbo imaginations of being and becoming African are compelling because they are instructive about the lives stories struggles and aspirations of the rainbow of people that make up Africa as a veritable global arena of productive circulations entanglements and compositeness of being The contributions foray into how claims to and practices of being and becoming African are steeped in histories of mobilities and a myriad of encounters shaped by and inspiring of the competing and complementary logics of personhood and power that Africans have sought and seek to capture in their repertoires of proverbs The task of documenting African proverbs and rendering them accessible in the form of a common hard currency with fascinating epistemological possibilities remains a challenge yearning for financial scholarly social and political attention The book is an important contribution to John Mbiti's clarion call for an active and sustained interest in African proverbs

In Hot Pursuit of Language in Prehistory John D. Bengtson, 2008 Compiled in honor and celebration of veteran anthropologist Harold C Fleming this book contains 23 articles by anthropologists in the general sense from the four main disciplines of prehistory archaeology biogenetics paleoanthropology and genetic historical linguistics Because of Professor Fleming's major focus on language he founded the Association for the Study of Language in Prehistory and the journal Mother Tongue the content of the book is heavily tilted toward the study of human language its origins historical development and taxonomy Because of Fleming's extensive field experience in Africa some of the articles deal with African topics This volume is intended to exemplify the principle in the words of Fleming himself that each of the four disciplines is enriched when it combines with any one of the other four The authors are representative of the cutting edge of their respective fields and this book is unusual in including contributions from a wide range of anthropological fields rather than concentrating in any one of them
