Food data collection in Household Consumption and Expenditure Surveys. Guidelines for low and middle income countries Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations,The World Bank,2018-10-30 The measurement of food consumption and expenditure is a fundamental component of any analysis of poverty and food security and hence the importance and timeliness of devoting attention to the topic cannot be overemphasized as the international development community confronts the challenges of monitoring progress in implementing the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development

In 2014 the International Household Survey Network published a desk review of the reliability and relevance of survey questions as included in 100 household surveys from low and middle income countries. The report was presented in March 2014 at the forty fifth session of the United Nations Statistical Commission UNSC in a seminar organized by the Inter Agency and Expert Group on Food Security Agricultural and Rural Statistics IAEG AG. The assessment painted a bleak picture in terms of heterogeneity in survey design and overall relevance and reliability of the data being collected. On the positive side it pointed to many areas in which even marginal changes to survey and questionnaire design could lead to a significant increase in reliability and consequently great improvements in measurement accuracy. The report which sparked a lot of interest from development partners and UNSC member countries prompted IAEG AG to pursue this area of work with the ultimate objective of developing validating and promoting scalable standards for the measurement of food consumption in household surveys. The work started with an expert workshop that took place in Rome in November 2014. Successive versions of the guidelines were drafted and discussed at various IAEG AG meetings and in another expert workshop organized in November 2016 in Rome. The guidelines were put together by a joint FAO World Bank team with inputs and comments received from representatives of national statistical offices international organizations survey practitioners academics and experts in different disciplines statistics economics nutrition food security and analysis. A list of the main contributors is included in the acknowledgment section. In December 2017 a draft of the guidelines was circulated to 148 National Statistical Offices from low to high income countries for comments. The document was revised following that consultation and submitted to UNSC which endorsed it at its forty ninth session in March 2018 under item 3 j of the agenda agricultural and rural statistics. The version presented here reflects what was endorsed by the Commission edited for language. The process received support from the Global Strategy for Agricultural and Rural Statistics. The document is intended to be a reference document for National Statistical Offices survey practitioners and national and international agencies designing household surveys that involve the collection of food consumption and expenditure data. Global report on the state of dietary data Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, Intake - Center for dietary assessment, 2022-03-09. Diet and nutrition are critical to health well being and longevity. The economic and health burdens associated with poor quality diets are a worldwide concern but for low and middle income countries LMICs the long term impact of these burdens has the potential to be especially devastating. Many of these LMICs are currently grappling with the deepening multiple burdens of malnutrition with undernutrition nutrient inadequacies and overweight and obesity often presenting simultaneously in communities households and even in single individuals. Time relevant data is a necessary and critical component of any process or initiative that aims to ensure healthy diets. Robust data on what people eat in a country enables an understanding of current food consumption practices and provides an evidence based foundation for the design and implementation of targeted and well informed actions policies and messaging to address the key issues related to healthy eating. The purpose of this report is to take stock and celebrate the collection and use of dietary data in LMICs and generate further momentum for investment in government led dietary surveys in LMICs Section 1 provides a global overview of dietary surveys carried out in LMICs from 1980 through 2019 analysing key characteristics and trends over time Section 2 celebrates the increased investment in dietary surveys in LMICs by highlighting country stories related to dietary survey initiation implementation and data use Section 3 is aimed at generating further momentum for investment in government led dietary surveys in LMICs by illustrating through data visualizations the type of information dietary data can provide for policy makers The State of Food Security and Nutrition in the World 2018 Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations,2018-09-14 New evidence this year corroborates the rise in world hunger observed in this report last year sending a warning that more action is needed if we aspire to end world hunger and malnutrition in all its forms by 2030 Updated estimates show the number of people who suffer from hunger has been growing over the past three years returning to prevailing levels from almost a decade ago Although progress continues to be made in reducing child stunting over 22 percent of children under five years of age are still affected Other forms of malnutrition are also growing adult obesity continues to increase in countries irrespective of their income levels and many countries are coping with multiple forms of malnutrition at the same time overweight and obesity as well as anaemia in women and child stunting and wasting Practical Applications of Medical Geology Malcolm Siegel,Olle Selinus,Robert Finkelman,2021-08-01 This edited volume provides a framework for integrating methods and information drawn from geological and medical sciences and provides case studies in medical geology to illustrate the usefulness of this framework for crafting environmental and public health policies related to natural materials The relevance of medical geology research to policy decisions is a topic rarely discussed and this volume attempts to be a unique source for researchers and policy makers in the field of medical geology in addressing this gap in practical medical geology applications The book s four sections establish this framework in detail using risk assessment case studies data analyses and specific medical geology techniques Following an introduction to medical geology in the context of risk assessment and risk management the second section discusses specific methods used in medical geology in the categories of geoscience biomedicine and data sources The third section discusses the medical geology of natural materials energy use and environmental and workplace impacts This section includes specific case studies in medical geology and describes how the methods and data from the previous section are used in a medical geology analysis The fourth section includes a guide to the medical geology literature and provides some examples of medical geology programs in Asia and Africa School-based food and nutrition education Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations ,2020-12-10 School based food and nutrition education SFNE helps schoolchildren and the school community to achieve lasting improvements in their food practices and outlooks build the capacity to change and to adapt to external change and pass on their learning to others SFNE has also an important role in complementing efforts that are being made globally to improve food environments and in empowering children and adolescents to become active participants in shaping the food system to be better able to deliver healthy and sustainable diets Despite increasing interest for SFNE the evidence that supports it and its potential much of traditional SFNE particularly in LMICs is largely underfunded not delivering results and disconnected from other key interventions that aim to support the food nutrition environment and education nexus SFNE is under resourced with capacity development opportunities lacking throughout the school system This White Paper is the first document of its kind and it is based on the evidence professional expertise and field experience lessons learned and documented challenges of SFNE work in a variety of contexts It presents the case for raising the profile and transforming the vision and learning model of SFNE This document is directed firstly to a technical audience working in governmental organizations that deal with schoolchildren and adolescents and is also of interest to researchers technical advisors decision makers donors and investors civil society and UN organizations
