through which the White Crystal will eventually reach Mount Olympus in the hands of Zeus and on the other the easiness with which the Black Crystal will reach Othrys in the hands of Cronos We are witnessing in fact the conflict between the rational and the irrational and the transition of man to the logical Man has fought hard during this transition His mind was aflame for a series of thousands of years in his effort to address his difficult and inscrutable questions At the end he came out victorious he moved on but it was a futile victory since he got carried away into metaphysical and supernatural escape routes So the metaphysical and illogical remains latent in his everyday reality and in every one of his thoughts and emerges in every difficulty Such titanic battles were fought inside the human mind
