Mind The Gap Mathematical Literacy:

Mind the Gap! Michael William Fortuin, 2015 International Perspectives on Teaching and Learning for Mathematical Literacy, 2024-10-02 Mathematics plays an important role in today's world and is used in daily life more than is often appreciated. Mathematical literacy denotes the competence to deal with the mathematical issues of life in modern society. The underlying purpose of this book is to support the development of rich understandings and practices of how an education for mathematical literacy can be realised. The collected works emerging from several educational systems offer a fresh perspective on mathematical literacy and the chapters include practical examples that teachers, pre-service teachers and teacher educators might adapt to their own needs.

Science Education for Diversity Nasser Mansour, Rupert Wegerif, 2013-06-18 Reflecting the very latest theory on diversity issues in science education including new dialogic approaches, this volume explores the subject from a range of perspectives and draws on studies from around the world. The work discusses fundamental topics such as how we conceptualize diversity as well as examining the ways in which heterogeneous cultural constructs influence the teaching and learning of science in a range of contexts. Including numerous strategies ready for adoption by interested teachers, the book addresses the varied cultural factors that influence engagement with science education. It seeks answers to the question of why increasing numbers of students fail to connect with science education in schools and looks at the more subtle impact that students' individually constructed identities have on the teaching and learning of science. Recognizing the diversity of its audience, the book covers differing levels and science subjects and examines material from a range of viewpoints that include pedagogy, curricula, teacher education, learning, gender, religion and ICT as well as those of in-service and trainee teachers at all levels.

Mentoring in STEM Through a Female Identity Lens: Heroes Make a Difference for Women Cecilia (Ceal) D. Craig, 2024-09-24 With the stagnant low percentages of women in STEM careers, identifying practices to satisfy the growing need for professionals in those fields is critical to improve recruitment and retention. Supportive relationships like mentors and sponsors have been shown to both inspire women to pursue those careers and to help them succeed in them. This book explores how developing supportive connections helps students, faculty and teachers see STEM professions as being a place for women to grow and succeed. Early chapters provide essential mentor characteristics and explore engineering education gender inequity from a teacher's perspective of stereotypes, stereotype threat and bias, offering culturally relevant teacher mentoring approaches to promote equitable pre-college engineering education. Middle chapters describe K-12 mentoring programs, mentorship initiatives empowering young South African women and girls to advance to mathematical related careers, programs, methods and activities to achieve the desired goal of making young students aspire to become scientists and engagement year-round in grades 9-12 combined with 40 years of iterative evaluation created a finely honed enrichment program for low-income Black women in urban public high schools. A longitudinal undergraduate mentoring program for mentoring early college students in

Louisiana provides further insights in that section The final four chapter section describes mentoring programs for professors and teachers reciprocal mentor relationships and role shifting within an informal peer mentoring group differences between mentoring relationships and sponsoring relationships within academia the impact of culturally responsive mentorship CRM on the development and expression of a pre service teacher s woman of science identity and a program that aims to recruit and retain STEM pre service teachers and STEM teachers of color With several longitudinal mentoring programs several programs for women of color this book fills a gap to help grow the numbers of women in STEM Becoming a Mathematician Leigh N Wood, Peter Petocz, Anna Reid, 2012-02-13 This book considers the views of participants in the process of becoming a mathematician that is the students and the graduates This book investigates the people who carry out mathematics rather than the topics of mathematics Learning is about change in a person the development of an identity and ways of interacting with the world It investigates more generally the development of mathematical scientists for a variety of workplaces and includes the experiences of those who were not successful in the transition to the workplace as mathematicians The research presented is based on interviews observations and surveys of students and graduates as they are finding their identity as a mathematician The book contains material from the research carried out in South Africa Northern Ireland Canada and Brunei as well as Australia Developing Mathematical Literacy in the Context of the Fourth Industrial Revolution Espinosa, Edgar Oliver Cardoso, 2021-03-12 In the context of the Fourth Industrial Revolution a world of continuous alterations is glimpsed where science and technology are at the base of economic competitiveness and where innovation plays a strategic role in global competition so that they are forced to cover a series of requirements to compete successfully in an increasingly globalized economy including high investments in both education and research Along these lines the formation of mathematical learning is important because it is oriented towards the development of a set of skills with the aim of resolving situations of daily and professional lives It focuses on the acquisition of employing the different ways of representing information in the form of models constructions and graphs to determine the best decision making In this sense it includes the mastery of the handling of numbers measures and structures to carry out the interpretation of operations and representations of a quantitative nature on personal and professional situations For a society to favor innovation the use of mathematical information is an essential condition that allows the development of creativity and analysis of information Mathematics education plays a vital role in this development Developing Mathematical Literacy in the Context of the Fourth Industrial Revolution studies the formation of mathematical abilities in the context of the Fourth Industrial Revolution regarding its development of both teaching and learning strategies as well as the use of ICT and its use in the development of this discipline in students It is important that teachers of any educational level reorient their teaching strategies and their role as educators Therefore the chapters discuss up to date and relevant information on teaching and didactic tasks in the subject of mathematics This book highlights mathematical pedagogies ICT in mathematics learning
