Planning for an innovation district Sara Lawrence, Michael Hogan, Elizabeth Grace Brown, 2019-02-13 Innovation districts are physical spaces that serve to strengthen the foundations and institutions of an innovation ecosystem The design implementation and management of formalized innovation districts is a new practice area Research draws upon the experience of concentrated areas of innovation that occurred organically such as Boston's Route 128 as well as intentional projects to bring together innovators in large science and technology parks such as North Carolina's Research Triangle Park Existing research focuses on how to define and design innovation districts and evaluate their impact as well as general policy considerations In this paper we review the definitions and benefits of an innovation district reviewing the existing empirical research on their impacts We then propose a series of questions to guide practitioners in addressing the economic physical social and governance elements of an innovation district Finally we outline some of the challenges in creating an innovation district and ways to measure progress to allow practitioners to get ahead of potential issues in the future This paper is intended to help policymakers and practitioners working in innovation and economic development translate the concepts of innovation ecosystems into actionable next steps for planning innovation districts in their communities
