The Nervous System

The nervous system is an extremely complex, highly intricate, and very sensitive structure that regulates everything that happens throughout the human body. The main purpose of all the nervous system and its various parts is to carry and send information, and give the body the signals it needs. The nervous system is basically made of two systems: the central nervous system (CNS) and the peripheral nervous system (PNS).

Central Nervous System

The central nervous system, or CNS, is the part of the nervous system that is located in the brain and spinal cord. It is the most complex part of the nervous system. The brain is the control center of the body, and is located within the protective skull. Layers of meninges and cerebrospinal fluid also protect the CNS. The spinal cord is made of many segments, and is located within the vertebral column. There are 31 segments in the spinal cord, and a part of the spinal cord is called the cauda equina, which is the tail of the horse.

Peripheral Nervous System

There are all parts of the nervous system that are not the CNS, and they make up the peripheral nervous system (PNS). The PNS is made up of all the nerves that are outside of the brain and spinal cord. It is responsible for sending and receiving information from the rest of the body. The PNS is made up of many different types of nerves, and is responsible for many different functions.

The PNS is divided into two main parts: the somatic nervous system, which is responsible for controlling the body's voluntary movements, and the autonomic nervous system, which is responsible for controlling the body's involuntary functions. The somatic nervous system is made up of the nerves that connect the brain and spinal cord to the muscles and organs of the body. The autonomic nervous system is made up of the nerves that control the body's internal organs, such as the heart, lungs, and digestive system. The autonomic nervous system is divided into two main parts: the sympathetic nervous system, which is responsible for the body's "fight or flight" response, and the parasympathetic nervous system, which is responsible for the body's "rest and digest" response.

The Brain

The brain is the most complex part of the nervous system. It is made up of many different parts, and is responsible for many different functions. The brain is divided into two main parts: the cerebrum, which is responsible for the body's voluntary movements, and the cerebellum, which is responsible for the body's involuntary functions. The cerebrum is made up of the two halves of the brain, and is responsible for many different functions, including thinking, feeling, and acting. The cerebellum is located at the back of the brain, and is responsible for coordinating movement and balance. The brain is also responsible for controlling the body's internal organs, such as the heart, lungs, and digestive system.
