

in A431 increases by two orders of magnitude from  $10^{-2}$  of native cells to 1 of M  $\beta$ CD treated cells. Noteworthy, the  $V(\overline{R_r^{-2}})$  value can be increased to higher than 10 in M  $\beta$ CD treated HeLa and MCF-12A cells, revealing that a deterministic dimerization interaction will dominate after membrane cholesterol is depleted. These observation results exhibit the vital role of membrane cholesterol in mediating the interaction between liganded receptors in the three cell lines under study.

Trajectory segments with a degree of correlation exceeding 0.8 were analyzed. Trajectories were sampled with a frame period of  $\tau=25$  ms. Data are shown in red for HeLa cells, green for A431 cells, and blue for MCF12A cells.

Discussion

A receptor protein can induce order in the surrounding lipids through the receptor-lipid interaction Gómez-Llobregat et al (2013). The degree of induced lipid order is determined by the effects of receptor-lipid interaction and the amount of cholesterol in the plasma membrane. Recent molecular dynamics (MD) simulations of human receptor tyrosine kinases in various lipid bilayers revealed that the predominant drivers of the receptor-induced lipid ordering domains may originate from electrostatic interactions between the anionic lipids and clustering basic residues in the juxtamembrane starting region of receptors "Hedger et al (2015). Lipid domains had been predicted to exist in multicomponent membranes and experimentally observed on artificial membranes. For example, thermal fluctuations on a multicomponent membrane can produce inhomogeneities of lipid phases because the order parameters of lipid systems depend not only on the lipid composition but also on the compositional difference of two lipid leaves Shlomovitz et al (2014). Coupling between inner and outer leaves of an asymmetric lipid bilayer could also produce inhomogeneities of lipid phases with a nonzero curvature Shlomovitz and Schäck

Teaching and Research in Africa Dennis Ocholla, Omwoyo Bosire Onyancha, Aderonke Olaitan Adesina, 2024-08-27 This book focuses on information seeking and the knowledge economy for teaching and research in Africa. The book first explores the evolution and current state of information seeking behavior research, demonstrating its importance in informing practice, policy, and design of information systems. Despite the informal sector's substantial contributions to the national economy in Uganda, there is a lack of studies delving into its information needs as well as an information gap in government, NGOs, and other stakeholders. The book proposes that an appropriate information behavior model for information-poor communities such as informal entrepreneurs must be grounded on oral traditions and indigenous knowledge and should be sensitive to poverty, infrastructure, and illiteracy. The negative impact of the lack of financial literacy skills for women entrepreneurs is investigated, and solutions for this problem are suggested, including regular assessments of women entrepreneurs' financial literacy skills and the introduction of training courses. The role of academic libraries in universities, library services for students with disabilities, and accessibility of library services to students with disabilities is discussed, and theoretical models for enhancing service in academic libraries are presented. The book highlights the specific challenges and opportunities related to information literacy for secondary schools and concludes by examining the rapid changes in library and information science research in South Africa.

Drawing on ideas, tools, and techniques from such disciplines as sociology, cognitive science, organizational behavior, and information science, the text describes KM theory and practice at the individual, community, and organizational levels. It offers illuminating case studies and vignettes from companies including IBM, Xerox, British Telecommunications, JP Morgan Chase, and Nokia.
