A Guide to Argumentative Research Writing and Thinking Arnold Wentzel, 2017-11-09 Research is difficult Even though students are trained in the basic research methodology skills when confronted with research writing it feels to them as if they enter a bizarre world with its own language and conventions where it is hard to get things right This book translates the apparent complexities of research writing into everyday ideas language and skills and will enable novice researchers to start overcoming the major stumbling blocks immediately This book focuses only on the greatest challenges in research writing specifically those that supervisors find most difficult to explain to novice researchers These challenges include both basic and more complex skills such as finding original research contributions establishing one's voice while drawing on other authors turning a vague idea into a feasible research question generating literature reviews that are original in themselves and avoiding list like writing when discussing the research methodology Wentzel shows that it is easier to overcome these challenges not with lists of prescriptions that are difficult to remember while writing but rather by cultivating an argumentative mindset Not only is such a mindset much easier to maintain but it offers a central point around which one can organise any difficult writing task The book shows how to use the argumentative mindset to approach every important writing challenge It translates all the necessary skills into jargon free language using a variety of visuals and simple step by step procedures that will enable any person to read the book quickly and start writing immediately The book is accompanied by a website containing an instructor's manual with guidance on the teaching and assessment of research writing as well as lecture slides

Infant-toddler Intervention, 1997 Global Mission Rose Dowsett, 2011-06-27 Reflections and Case Studies in Contextualization for the Whole Church Global Mission is divided into two sections the first Reflections and Foundations comprises nine essays of a more general nature the second Contextualization at Work contains twenty one essays of a more specific nature most of them case studies from a particular location and people group The thirty three contributors come from five continents and a host of contexts Some are veterans some quite young but every one of them is passionate about God's mission and about building bridges for the gospel in a way that is absolutely faithful to Scripture but also sensitive to specific contexts North and South East and West demonstrate precious unity in Christ in our common calling Contextualization is complex and none of the authors claim to have got everything right But their essays are thoughtful and written out of love for God and love for his world They tell the stories of trial and error of struggles and triumphs as each seeks to present Christ in terms that make sense and can be understood It is following the process quite as much as specific conclusions which make this book valuable and transferable to many other parts of the global church The essays also give us a peep into many different societies and the birthing of faith in the grace of the Holy Spirit Thus we give thanks to God for all that he is wonderfully doing around his world and stimulate our prayers for those who work cross culturally especially in pioneer situations Not all contributors agree on every point especially when it comes to the difficulties of mission in the Muslim world and increasingly amongst Hindus There has been no attempt to standardize different approaches letting a robust conversation develop Each chapter ends with some suggested study questions useful for personal reflection or group or class discussion The book is deliberately accessible to lay people but stimulating to career missionaries and academics
