

FOOD WEB WORKSHEET

TASK 1: Read through the text about a food web.

The Torrens River starts in the Adelaide hills as several small creeks which join to form one larger creek. As it winds its way down the hills to the city, more and more water is added. The river generally flows only in winter when the rainfall is sufficient and dries up into small waterholes during the summer. A weir is used to hold water permanently in the city. It is surprising how many organisms rely on the river for their existence.

- Algae and water ribbons can be observed growing in the water.
- On the water's edge, fluffy topped reeds such as the common reed and the bulrush grow.
- Water boatmen are observed swimming in the water. They are eating the algae and reeds.
- Mosquito larvae also eat the algae
- Freshwater snail eats both the algae and water ribbons.
- A long necked tortoise pokes its nostrils above the water. The tortoise eats the algae too, as well as feeding on snails, boatman and yabbies.
- The water boatman provides food for many species including fish, frogs, diving beetles and dragonfly larvae.
- The yabbies are scavengers, feeding on rotting remains of plants and animals
- Mosquito larvae are considered a delicacy for fish
- Pacific black ducks are feeding on fish, dragonfly larvae and diving beetles
- Pelicans feed on fish, frogs and dragonfly larvae.
- Black swans make a beautiful sight, bending their elegant necks to forage under the water grazing on the water ribbons, snails and an occasional fish.
- The white-faced heron makes a meal of the fish and frogs.
- The purple swamp hen runs quickly from the bulrushes where it feeds on the tender growth of the bulrushes and also makes its nest.
- On the bank a blue-tongue lizard is sunning itself in a warm rock. It snaps at the dragonflies and diving beetle and beware the unwary frog, the lizard will sometimes eat them too.

TASK 2: Use the pictures provided to construct the food web described above

You can do this electronically (the organisms are all individual pics you can move around on the screen) or you can get a print-out and cut and paste.

It is best to start with the producers and build up. When you are happy with your placement, glue/write the animals in place and complete the arrows to show the flow of energy. You may need to read through parts of the text again.

TASK 3: Divide the organisms into the following categories:

Producers	1 st Order Consumer	2 nd (and higher) Order Consumer
