Abstract. Abstracts are short, concise summaries of the main points of a research paper. They are usually written by the author of the paper and are used to provide a quick overview of the paper's content. Abstracts are often used by researchers to quickly assess the relevance of a paper to their own work. They are also used by librarians to help users find relevant information. Abstracts are typically written in a clear, concise, and objective style. They should be easy to read and understand, and they should provide enough information to allow the reader to decide whether or not to read the full paper. Abstracts are an important part of the research process, and they are used by a wide range of people, from researchers to students to the general public.
