Electrical installation

General description

Electrical supply is by means of two 12-volt 65 Ah starter batteries which are wired in series.

The 24-volt 130 Ah generator supplies exciting current to the electronic controller for generator and drive motor.

The starter system is supplied by 24 V battery with 12 volts battery voltage.

The loads electrically connecting the 12 V generator to the drive motor are the typical type, i.e. they are completely isolated electrically from truck frame. Cable routing conforms to VDE 0188 standards. Also of the typical type, the electrical cables between controller and excitation windings of drive motor and generator are not grounded.

The connecting wiring harness is of the unshielded type. Truck frame routing meets VDE 0117 requirements. All control voltages are with negative (-) against the body (frame).

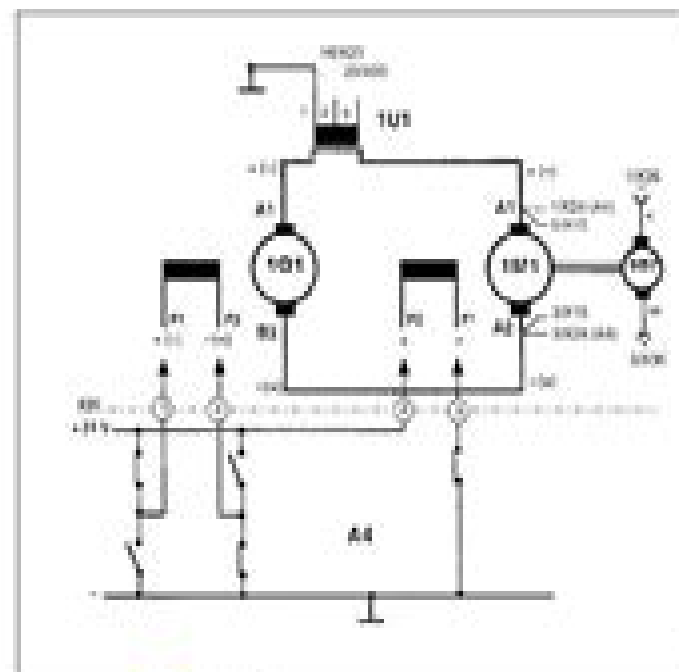

There are differences in the electrical system of diesel and LPG powered models, viz.

DPG (diesel model)

- Fuel-injection system
- Sensor for injection pump

WPG (LPG model)

- Control unit for 12-volt ignition system
- Throttle positioning solenoid
- Control unit for LPG model fitted with a catalytic converter

Small, standard type
