Primary Health Care in Tanzania through a Health Systems Lens Ntuli A. Kapologwe, James Tumaini Kengia, Eric van Praag, Japhet Killewo, Albino Kalolo, 2023-09-08 Robust health care systems are paramount for the health security and prosperity of people and countries as a whole. This book provides for the first time a chronicle of the struggle for and eventual success of universal health coverage UHC in Tanzania. Beginning with an introduction to primary health care in the country from its historical foundations to the major milestones of implementation, this book then considers stewardship of this important aspect of health systems over time. Concluding with a look to the future forecasting the changes and new solutions needed to adapt to a changing world, this book is a valuable reference for policy makers, global health practitioners, health system managers, researchers, students, and all those with an interest in primary health care and reforms both in Tanzania and beyond.

International Handbook of Lifelong Learning David N. Aspin, Judith Chapman, Michael Hatton, Yukiko Sawano, 2012-12-06 Recent changes in the world effected by the transformations of information technology globalisation and the move towards a knowledge economy over the last thirty years have been as radical and fundamental as the changes resulting from the invention of the wheel and the printing press We are now living in a new age in which the demands are so complex so multifarious and so rapidly changing that the only way in which we shall be able to survive them is by committing to a process of individual communal and global learning throughout the lifespan of all of us A number of international bodies and agencies have taken cognisance of these transformations and the demands they impose upon societies and communities of the twenty first century and have developed and articulated policies intended to enable all citizens of the world in the twenty first century to face these challenges It is now a declared policy of many governments and international agencies that the only vehicle for such preparation is education education education and that preparing for the knowledge economy and the learning society of the future has to be a lifelong undertaking an investment in the future that is not restricted merely to the domain of economic advancement but also to those of social inclusion and personal growth Realising this policy makers across the international arena are grappling with the need to move from systems that emphasise education and training to the radically more unworked construct of lifelong learning In this volume the editors and authors analyse criticise and rework the ideas principles and theories underpinning policies and programs of lifelong learning re interpreting them in the light of examples of best practice found in a range of educating institutions around the world We believe that students of educational change and community development will find it useful and helpful to have available in this volumesome of the most up to date thinking on the chief concepts theories and values of increasing policy interest in lifelong learning together with a review of some significant examples of the different forms focuses and nexuses of thought and practice on this topic All this enables us to offer some policy recommendations and practical suggestions as to ways forward in the endeavour to make lifelong learning a reality for all Public Sector Reform in Developing and Transitional Countries Christopher Rees, Farhad Hossain, 2013-09-13 Over recent decades decentralization has emerged as a key Public Sector Reform strategy in a wide variety of international contexts Yet despite its emergence as a ubiquitous activity that cuts across disciplinary lines in international development decentralization is understood and applied in many different ways by parties acting from contrary perspectives This book offers a fascinating insight into theory and practice surrounding decentralization activities in the Public Sectors of developing and transitional countries In drawing on the expertise of established scholars the book explores the contexts achievements progress and challenges of decentralization and local governance Notably the contributions contained in this book are genuinely international in nature the chapters explore aspects of decentralization and local governance in contexts as diverse as Ghana Hong Kong India Indonesia Kazakhstan Morocco Tanzania Uganda and Viet Nam In summary by examining the subject of decentralization with reference to specific developing and transitional Public Sector contexts in which it has been practiced this book offers an excellent contribution towards a better understanding of the theory and practice of decentralization and local governance in international settings This book was published as a special double issue of the International Journal of Public Administration
