Craig, Chantell L. McDowell, 2013 Working with at risk teens including those who are homeless incarcerated or in foster care is a rewarding but often challenging endeavor especially with a growing number of at risk teens in both urban and rural areas of the country. Based on best practices and personal experiences from many leaders in the field today including authors Angela Craig and Chantell L. McDowell this book shows how libraries and communities can work together to find new ways to serve this population. Packed with accessible and affordable programming ideas ready to use templates and techniques this addition to the Teens the Library series demonstrates why serving at risk teens is important and offers advice for gaining institutional support for outreach services. Shows how to understand the needs of at risk teens including a discussion of the factors that place teens at risk. Examines diversity within the at risk population. Suggests ways to partner with youth facilities with real world examples of working with non library personnel and caregivers. Provides guidance for collection and resource development. Gives examples of technology based programs to promote literacy and connectedness. Library Services for

Immigrants and New Americans Jennifer Koerber, 2018-05-09 Wondering what your library can do for your community's immigrant population. This book is replete with resources tips and suggestions providing valuable guidance to librarians who want to better serve this still growing part of America's population. This up to date guide to developing and implementing a wide variety of services to immigrants and new Americans focuses on the practical steps of creating and promoting programs. Illustrated by success stories in libraries throughout the country the book discusses both traditional ESOL and citizenship classes and transformative legal aid and workforce development programs and services in terms of size type and local political climate e.g. sanctuary cities at a variety of public libraries as well as in select school libraries. As changes unfold in regard to how the federal government and local communities view and treat immigrants and new Americans in their midst this topic deserves a fresh take from the profession. The author meets that need providing practical ideas that range from creating more accessible websites and improving wayfinding and customer service in order to overcome cultural roadblocks to dealing with backlash in communities as libraries extend outreach and partnership building goals. Taking Stands

Maureen Gail Reed, 2003 Environmental activism in rural places frequently pits residents whose livelihood depends on resource extraction against those who seek to protect natural spaces and species. While many studies have focused on women who seek to protect the natural environment few have explored the perspectives of women who seek to maintain resource use This book goes beyond the dichotomies of pro and anti environmentalism to tell the stories of these women Maureen Reed uses participatory action research to explain the experiences of women who seek to protect forestry as an industry a livelihood a community and a culture She links their experiences to policy making by considering the effects of environmental policy changes on the social dynamics of workplaces households and communities in forestry towns of British Columbia s temperate rainforest The result is a critical commentary about the social dimensions of sustainability in rural communities A powerful and challenging book Taking Stands provides a crucial understanding of community change in resource dependent regions and helps us to better tackle the complexities of gender and activism as they relate to rural sustainability Social and environmental geographers feminist scholars and those engaged in rural studies environmental sustainability and community planning will find it invaluable
