Teaching U.S.-Educated Multilingual Writers Mark Roberge,Kay M. Losey,Margi Wald,2015-06-04 This volume was born to address the lack of classroom oriented scholarship regarding U S educated multilingual writers Unlike prior volumes about U S educated multilinguals this book focuses solely on pedagogy from classroom activities and writing assignments to course curricula and pedagogical support programs outside the immediate classroom Unlike many pedagogical volumes that are written in the voice of an expert researcher theorist this volume is based on the notion of teachers sharing practices with teachers All of the contributors are teachers who are writing about and reflecting on their own experiences and outcomes and interweaving those experiences and outcomes with current theory and research in the field The volume thus portrays teachers as active reflective participants engaged in critical inquiry Contributors represent community college college and university contexts academic ESL developmental writing and first year composition classes and face to face hybrid and online contexts This book was developed primarily to meet the needs of practicing writing teachers in college level ESL basic writing and college composition classrooms but will also be useful to pre service teachers in TESOL Composition and Education graduate programs

Liberal Learning and the Art of Self-Governance Emily Chamlee-Wright,2015-11-19 Concerns over affordability and accountability have tended to direct focus away from the central aims of liberal learning such as preparing minds for free inquiry and inculcating the habits of mind practical skills and values necessary for effective participation in civil society The contributors to this volume seek to understand better what it is that can be done on a day to day basis within institutions of liberal learning that shape the habits and practices of civil society The central argument of this volume is that institutions of liberal learning are critical to a developing and flourishing civil society. It is within these civil society incubators that the habits of open discourse are practiced and honed that a collaborative often contentious commitment to truth seeking serves as the rules that govern our work together that the rules of personal and widespread social cooperation are established practiced and refined. Many have made this argument as it relates to community based learning and we explore that theme here as well. But acquiring and practicing the habits of civil society recur within and throughout the college context in the classrooms in college governance structures in professional associations in collaborative research in the residence halls and on the playing field. To put it another way when they are at their best institutions of liberal learning are contexts in which students learn how to live in a free society and learn the art of self governance.
