The roles and applications of various modeling approaches aimed at improving the usefulness of energy policy models in public decision making are covered by this book. The development, validation and applications of system dynamics and agent based models in service of energy policy design and assessment in the 21st century is a key focus. A number of modeling approaches and models for energy policy with a particular focus on low carbon economic development of regions and states are covered. Chapters on system dynamics methodology, model based theory, fuzzy system dynamics framework and optimization modeling approach are presented along with several chapters on future research opportunities for the energy policy modeling community. The use of model based analysis and scenarios in energy policy design and assessment has seen phenomenal growth during the past several decades. In recent years renewed concerns about climate change and energy security have posed unique modeling challenges. By utilizing the validation techniques and procedures which are effectively demonstrated in these contributions, researchers and practitioners in energy systems domain can increase the appeal and acceptance of their policy models.

Emergency Medicine, Trauma and Disaster

Management Emmanouil Pikoulis, Jay Doucet, 2021-06-12. The number of natural and man made disasters has risen dramatically over the last decade. Natural disasters, industrial accidents and terrorist attacks represent major incidents often involving multiple casualties. In such cases health professionals face multiple challenges because the type of medical care required differs from what is taught and provided in their everyday hospital duties. The aim of this book is to inform and prepare healthcare professionals for the challenges posed by major incidents so that they can act effectively in medical teams sent on humanitarian missions or into conflict zones. It offers a holistic and horizontal approach covering all stages of the disaster management cycle. The book is divided into 5 sections: section i prehospital emergency services, section ii hospital response, section iii management of incidents, section iv after the disaster and section v evaluation, ethical issues, education and research. Healthcare providers will find essential information on the special medical considerations in both prehospital and hospital disaster settings: medical management of disaster response, recovery, mitigation and preparedness. The book offers an interdisciplinary and interprofessional approach and was written by prominent researchers and experienced practitioners.
