7 Dismantling the engine unit: removing the cylinder head and rotor - all models except RM50

1 As mentioned in the previous Section, all models except RM50 make use of CDI ignition systems. The CDI rotor are housed beneath the left-hand cover and should be removed to gain access to a larger central hole in the left-hand cover. First, a screwdriver is used to remove the screw which holds the cover in place. To remove the pin, use a small screwdriver to push it out. See the accompanying diagram for details.

Arrange the pin on the cover and remove from the cover. To remove the cover, it is necessary to draw off water. To do this, disconnect the water hose from the engine and place it in a bucket. Then use a siphon pump to draw the water out. Once the water has been removed, use a screwdriver to pry it out of the cover, placing it with the rotor for safe keeping.

Dismantling the engine unit: removing the gearbox sprocket

If the dismantling work is being carried out as a precursor to crankcase separation, the gearbox sprocket should be removed at this juncture. With the engine in position in the frame, it is easiest to release the sprocket retaining nut with the chain in place and the rear brake applied, as described in Section 3.6 of this Chapter.

With the engine on the workbench, the sprocket can be prevented from rotating by locking the crankshaft with a bar inserted through the connecting rod eye, and selecting top gear. Alternatively, loop the drive chain around the sprocket and clamp the ends with a self-locking wrench. Knock back the locking tabs, and slacken and remove the securing nut, washer and spacer.
