Protective Coatings Mei Wen, Karel Dušek, 2017-05-26. This book focuses on characterization of organic coatings by different testing methods and understanding of structure formation and materials properties. The knowledge of protective organic coatings and current test methods is based largely on empirical experience. This book aims at explaining the coating property changes during film drying and curing in terms of chemical and physical transformations. Current test methods are reviewed with emphasis on understanding their physical basis and expressing the test results in terms of comparable physical quantities. In general, this book provides readers a deeper understanding of the binder design, coating film formation process, properties, build up, appearance, and defect formation, and automotive paint application. It also suggests manifold ways to improving the coatings performance. This book is designed for coating professionals to gain deeper understanding of characterization techniques and to select the right ones to solve their coating problems. It is ideal for both experienced and early career scientists and engineers. Also, it is useful for graduate students in the general area of protective coatings.

Personality Assessment in the DSM-5 Steven K. Huprich, Christopher J. Hopwood, 2014-10-29. The DSM-5 promises to be a major reformulation of psychopathology, and no section is likely to change diagnostic practice more than that of personality pathology. Unlike the DSM-IV, the DSM-5 personality disorders will be conceptualized as involving core deficits in interpersonal and self-functioning and will utilize a hybrid assessment model involving both pathological trait dimensions and a limited set of personality disorder types. These changes are based on empirical and theoretical work conducted during the era of DSM-III-R, but nevertheless, there is significant disagreement among personality assessors regarding the DSM-5 proposal. In this volume, several members of the DSM-5 work group offer rationales for the proposal and offer empirical evidence regarding suggested changes, and several personality assessment researchers critique the proposal and offer alternative conceptualizations. This book was originally published as a special issue of the Journal of Personality Assessment.

Addiction and Neurodegenerative Disorders Samer El Hayek, 2026-01-22. The brain regions and neuronal processes that underlie addiction extensively overlap with those needed for cognitive functions including learning, memory, and reasoning. Addiction negatively impacts cognitive functions, making it more challenging to maintain abstinence and potentially leading to progression into neurodegenerative disorders Furthermore individuals living with neurodegenerative disorders can engage in behaviors such as self medication due to impaired judgment and impulsivity associated with their condition Addressing either of these conditions becomes markedly more intricate when they co occur This book explores the intricate and often overlooked connection between neurodegenerative disorders and addiction It delves into the complex interplay between the two areas discussing preclinical to clinical findings that highlight commonalities shared risk factors causality comorbidity management and evidence based interventions By examining all these factors an international team of contributors offer a comprehensive understanding of this underexplored intersection and its profound implications on affected individuals and their families the healthcare system and treatment strategies
