Learning Trajectories, Innovation and Identity for Professional Development Anne Mc Kee, Michael Eraut, 2011-09-18 Educators in the professions have always had unique demands placed upon them These include the need to keep pace with rapidly evolving knowledge bases developing skills and attitudes appropriate to practice learning in the workplace and fostering public confidence For twenty years these new demands have created additional educational imperatives Public accountability has become more intensive and extensive Practitioners practice in climates more subject to scrutiny and less forgiving of error The contexts in which professionals practice and learn have changed and these changes involve global issues and problems Often professionals are the first responders who are required to take an active stance in defining and solving problems This book explores the pedagogic implications of these challenges internationally for a wide range of professions which include accountants military company commanders surgeons nurse practitioners academic managers community physicians and dentists The established view of professional development is about what the professional knows and can do The authors broaden this view to include the systemic and contextual factors that affect learning and the conditions necessary for effective practice and identity development across the professional lifespan Authors examine the unique particularities and requirements of diverse professional groups The editors emphasize new ideas and learning that emerges across the professions As readers use this book as a pathway to their own innovations in scholarship and pedagogic research they join their colleagues in supporting new directions in learning teaching and assessment across professions This book was awarded the Outstanding Research Publication award for 2012 by the American Educational Research Association s Division I Education in the Professions p Novel treatment approaches and future directions in substance use disorders Kenneth Michael Dürsteler, Marc Walter, Peter Blanken, 2023-08-23 Gender and Non-Communicable Diseases Aswathy Sreedevi, Rakesh P. S. , Sairu Philip, 2024-10-01 Risk factors for chronic diseases differ between men and women Exploring and tracking the direction and magnitude of trends in exposure to risk factors and accessing services will provide valuable insights into the prevention and control of non communicable diseases As sex disaggregated data can hide important differences between men and women it is important to analyze the non communicable disease data gender wise Research in these areas will also help to understand the role of gender and help in the planning of gender responsive health promotion or preventive campaigns and gender responsive interventions There is a need to address the impact of gender norms roles and the social determinants of health on the differential exposure to risk factors between men and women Health seeking behavior life years of exposure and the responses from health care providers in a gender sex aggregated manner could also give interesting insights into the role of gender Men are not homogenous groups and their health opportunities and risks vary according to social economic environmental and cultural influences throughout their lifetime The disproportionate morbidity among women and disproportionately high mortality among men also need to be looked into Articles on the above areas will also help to address the Sustainable Development Goal SDG 5 on gender equality and empowering women with NCD related targets under SDG 3 on ensuring healthy lives In this context it would be invaluable to create and compile research articles in this area

Commerce Business Daily ,2001-08 Empowering Public Administrators Amanda M. Olejarski,Sue M. Neal,2024-02-06 Public administrators need to be empowered to make difficult decisions Acting in the public interest often means doing what is ethical even when it is an unpopular choice Yet too often public servants at the local state and federal levels internalize the notion that their hands are tied and that they are limited in their ability to effect change Empowering Public Administrators Ethics and Public Service Values provides a much needed antidote to inaction offering a new lens for viewing administrative decision making and behavior This book makes a case for bringing historically significant theories to the forefront of public service ethics by applying them to a series of current ethical challenges in practice Exploring administrative discretion as modern bureaucrats govern public affairs in a political context this collection builds on the normative foundations of public administration and provides readers with a scaffold for understanding and practicing public service values Questions for discussion and applications to practice are included in each chapter making this collection of interest to public affairs master s and doctoral students as well as public service practitioners
