hazards and risks Interdisciplinary research of geomorphological processes and events related to natural hazards in the Nepal Himalaya follows general efforts to reduce geoenvironmental disasters Visual documentation is of particular importance in the conception of the book which is intended for specialized researchers as well as students The American Stationer, 1910 East Asia, Peacekeeping Operations, and Humanitarian Assistance and Disaster Relief Catherine Jones, Garren Mulloy, 2021-11-29 Focusing on East Asia this collection explores the paradox of functional regional cooperation in the areas of humanitarian assistance disaster relief and UN Peacekeeping operations in a context of increasing regional tensions and threats East Asia comprising the states of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations and China Japan the Republic of Korea and the Democratic People's Republic of Korea is facing a range of human traditional climate and ideational threats In addressing some of these threats particularly those arising from climate induced disasters this region has been able to develop some ad hoc cooperative practices that according to functional logics of regional integration could lead to longer term sustained coordinated responses and even regional partnerships Similarly the region is increasingly contributing to UN peacekeeping operations where these states also cooperate in the context of an UN led mission Yet despite the potential for these interactions to lead to greater regional integration and coordinated action in responding to a range of security threats these interactions are increasingly taking place in a context of animosity both between regional powers and with extra regional powers This edited collection explores these functional interactions and posits conclusions about the potential for longer term sustained coordinated action These papers engage with a range of theoretical approaches in explaining the patterns of relations that are present in the region in relation to humanitarian assistance disaster relief and UN peacekeeping operations The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of the Australian Journal of International Affairs

Climate Change and European Security Richard Youngs, 2014-10-10 It is now commonly asserted that climate change will fundamentally change international relations It has been predicted that global warming will increase conflict within and between states intensify food insecurity menace the global trading system and unleash waves of migration As a result governments are beginning to incorporate these warnings into their foreign policy initiatives The appropriateness of their incipient responses needs to be examined in finer detail This book looks at the impact of climate change on European Union EU security policy It explores how governments are reconfiguring their geo strategy and broader international relations in the wake of climate change warnings The book demonstrates that although many aspects of EU foreign policies have begun to change climate security is not yet accorded unequivocal or sufficient priority In doing so Youngs argues that if climate change policies are to have significant effect they can no longer be treated as a separate area of policy but must be incorporated into the more mainstream debates pertinent to EU common foreign and security policy CFSP This book will be of key interest to students scholars and practitioners of climate change and policy energy and environmental policy EU governance and foreign policy European studies international relations geography security studies
