Cooperative Communications and Networking Y.-W. Peter Hong, Wan-Jen Huang, C.-C. Jay Kuo, 2010-07-28 Cooperative and relay communications have recently become the most widely explored topics in communications whereby users cooperate in transmitting their messages to the destination instead of conventional networks which operate independently and compete among each other for channel resources As the field has progressed cooperative communications have become a design concept rather than a specific transmission technology This concept has revolutionized the design of wireless networks allowing increased coverage throughput and transmission reliability even as conventional transmission techniques gradually reach their limits Cooperative and relay technologies have also made their way toward next generation wireless standards such as IEEE802 16 WiMAX or LTE and have been incorporated into many modern wireless applications such as cognitive radio and secret communications Cooperative Communications and Networking Technologies and System Design provides a systematic introduction to the fundamental concepts of cooperative communications and relays technology to enable engineers researchers or graduate students to conduct advanced research and development in this area Cooperative Communications and Networking Technologies and System Design provides researchers graduate students and practical engineers with sufficient knowledge of both the background of cooperative communications and networking and potential research directions

Climate Change and International Trade Rafael Leal-Arcas, 2013-01-01 Rafael Leal Arcas expertly examines the interface of climate change mitigation and international trade law with a view to addressing the question How can we make best use of the international trading system experience to aim at a global climate change agreement The insightful book contributes to developing the architecture for a post 2012 global climate agreement and in doing so seeks and proposes new approaches to climate change mitigation by linking it to the international trade system. The author suggests the adoption of a bottom up approach to climate change negotiations by using the evolution of multilateral trade agreements as a model for reaching a global climate treaty. He discusses the innovative approach of inserting climate goals within regional trade agreements given their proliferation especially bilateral in the international trading system. He explains the trade implications of climate change mitigation policies by analyzing a couple of areas where the international regimes for trade and climate change mitigation may potentially clash. Climate Change and International Trade will strongly appeal to undergraduate and graduate students of international and European trade law, international and European environmental law as well as social science academics. NGOs, think tanks, practitioners, researchers and international organizations will also find plenty of valuable information in this timely resource. Hague Yearbook of International Law / Annuaire de La Haye de Droit International, Vol. 23 (2010)

Nikos Lavranos, Ruth A. Kok, 2019-03-25. The title of the Hague Yearbook of International Law reflects the close ties which have always existed between the AAA and the City of The Hague with its international law institutions and indicates the Yearbook's aim of devoting attention to developments taking place in the international law institutions based in The Hague. However, the Yearbook has a broader scope as well to offer a platform for review of new developments in the field of international law. As of the 2010 Volume, the Yearbook will be compiled by a new and expanded Editorial Board offering fresh ideas and a new approach. A newly established Advisory Board has also been added including ICJ Judge Bruno Simma, Serge Brammertz, Prosecutor of the International Criminal Tribunal for the Former Yugoslavia, ICTY, Jacomijn J. van Haersolte van Hof, advocate/advocaat at HaersolteHof and arbitrator, The Netherlands, and Professor Peter Hilpold, Innsbruck University, Austria. Sections have been created on public international law, private international law, international investment law and international criminal law, containing in-depth articles on current issues. The breadth of the Yearbook's content thus offers an interesting and valuable illustration of the dynamic developments in the various sub-areas of international law. Building Linux Virtual Private Networks (VPNs) Oleg Kolesnikov, Brian Hatch, 2002. The authors meet the growing demands of decentralized companies that need a secure and functional network using Linux. The only book available that extensively covers the combination of VPN technology and Linux, this volume teaches first-hand how to build various VPN solutions with individual setup guides. The Federal Reporter, 1923.
