The Psychology of Reading Mildred C. Robeck, Randall R. Wallace, 2017-11-06 The need to know why as well as how children and youth respond as they do to reading instruction has guided the selection of this book s content The second edition of this title originally published in 1990 has retained and elaborated upon the three major themes previously presented that reading is a linguistic process that motivation the affective domain may be as important in learning to read as the cognitive domain and that the reality of learning theory is to be found in the mechanisms of the brain where information is mediated and memory traces are stored The text integrates views from cognitive psychology psycholinguistics and neuropsychology as they relate to reading and writing A learning motivation model is provided to present associative learning conceptualization and self directed reading in a hierarchical relationship with distinct cognitive and affective components The distinction between beginning and proficient reading is maintained throughout the text

Handbook of Arabic Literacy Elinor Saiegh-Haddad, R. Malatesha Joshi, 2014-04-03 This book provides a synopsis of recently published empirical research into the acquisition of reading and writing in Arabic Its particular focus is on the interplay between the linguistic and orthographic structure of Arabic and the development of reading and writing spelling In addition the book addresses the socio cultural political and educational milieu in which Arabic literacy is embedded It enables readers to appreciate both the implications of empirical research to literacy enhancement and the challenges and limitations to the applicability of such insights in the Arabic language and literacy context The book will advance the understanding of the full context of literacy acquisition in Arabic with the very many factors religious historical linguistic etc that interact and will hence contribute to weakening the anglocentricity that dominates discussions of this topic California Journal of Educational Research ,1972 Handbook of Early Literacy Research, Volume 2 David K.
