De León, a Tejano Family History Ana Carolina Castillo Crimm, 2010-01-01 Winner Presidio La Bahia Award 2004 San Antonio Conservation Society Citation 2005 La familia de León was one of the foundation stones on which Texas was built Martín de León and his wife Patricia de la Garza left a comfortable life in Mexico for the hardships and uncertainties of the Texas frontier in 1801 Together they established family ranches in South Texas and in 1824 the town of Victoria and the de León colony on the Guadalupe River along with Stephen F. Austin's colony the only completely successful colonization effort in Texas They and their descendants survived and prospered under four governments as the society in which they lived evolved from autocratic to republican and the economy from which they drew their livelihood changed from one of mercantile control to one characterized by capitalistic investments Combining the storytelling flair of a novelist with a scholar's concern for the facts Ana Carolina Castillo Crimm here recounts the history of three generations of the de León family She follows Martín and Patricia from their beginnings in Mexico through the establishment of the family ranches in Texas and the founding of the de León colony and the town of Victoria Then she details how after Martín's death in 1834 Patricia and her children endured the Texas Revolution exile in New Orleans and Mexico expropriation of their lands and after returning to Texas years of legal battles to regain their property Representative of the experiences of many Tejanos whose stories have yet to be written the history of the de León family is the story of the Tejano settlers of Texas

Through the dedicated intervention of LULAC and other Mexican American activist groups the understanding of civil rights in America was vastly expanded in the late 1960s and early 1970s Mexican Americans gained federal remedies for discrimination based not simply on racial but also on cultural and linguistic disadvantages Generally considered one of the more conservative ethnic political organizations LULAC had traditionally espoused nonconfrontational tactics and had insisted on the identification of Mexican Americans as white But by 1966 the changing civil rights environment new federal policies that protected minority groups and rising militancy among Mexican American youth led LULAC to seek federal protections for Mexican Americans as a distinct minority In that year LULAC joined other Mexican American groups in staging a walkout during meetings with the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission in Albuquerque In this book Craig A Kaplowitz draws on primary sources at both national and local levels to understand the federal policy arena in which the identity issues and power politics of LULAC were played out At the national level he focuses on presidential policies and politics since civil rights has been preeminently a presidential issue He also examines the internal tensions between LULAC members ethnic allegiances and their identity as American citizens which led to LULAC's attempt to be identified as white while paradoxically claiming policy benefits from the fact that Mexican Americans were treated as if they were non white This compelling study offers an important bridge between the history of social movements and the history of policy development It also provides new insight into an important group on America's multicultural stage Registration Law and Rules, Roster of Registered Architects as of ...
