Curing Affluenza Richard Denniss, 2018-02-15 Affluenza is that strange desire we feel to spend money we don't have to buy things we don't need to impress people we don't know. A truly modern affliction, affluenza is endemic in Western societies encouraged by those who profit from a culture of exploitation and waste. So how do we cure ourselves? In this sparkling book of ideas, Richard Denniss shows we must distinguish between consumerism, the love of buying things which is undeniably harmful to us and the planet, and materialism, the love of things which can in fact be beneficial. We should cherish the things we own, preserve them, repair them, and then gift or sell them when we no longer need them. We must foster new ways of thinking and acting that do not squander limited resources and which support the things we value most: vibrant communities and rich experiences. At once a lucid explanation of a critical global issue and a stirring call to action, Curing Affluenza will change the way you think about your place in the world. With special contributions from Bob Brown, Kumi Naidoo, Marilyn Waring, John Quiggin, Leanne Minshull, Jim Stanford, Bill McKibben, Craig Bennett.

Producing Masculinity Michele White, 2019-02-08 Thoughtful, witty, and illuminating, in this book Michele White explores the ways normative masculinity is associated with computers and the Internet and is a commonly enacted online gender practice. Through close readings and a series of case studies that range from wedding forums to men's makeup video tutorials, White considers the ways masculinities are structured through people's collaborations and contestations over the establishment of empowered positions, including debates about such key terms and positions as the nice guy, nerd, bro, and groom. She asserts that cultural notions of masculinity are reliant on figurations of women and femininity and explores cultural conceptions of masculinity and the association of normative white heterosexual masculinity with men and women. A counterpart to her earlier book Producing Women, White has crafted an excellent primer for scholars of gender, media, and Internet studies.

Environmental Crime and Social Conflict Avi Brisman, Nigel South, Rob White, 2016-03-09 This impressive collection of original essays explores the relationship between social conflict and the environment, a topic that has received little attention within criminology. The chapters provide a systematic and comprehensive introduction and overview of conflict situations stemming from human exploitation of environments, as well as the impact of social conflicts on the wellbeing and health of specific species and ecosystems. Largely informed by green criminology perspectives, the chapters in the book are intended to stimulate new understandings of the relationships between humans and nature through critical evaluation of environmental destruction and degradation associated with social conflicts occurring around the world With a goal of creating a typology of environment social conflict relationships useful for green criminological research this study is essential reading for scholars and academics in criminology as well as those interested in crime law and justice
