Multilingualism

Online Carmen Lee, 2016-09-13 By the co author of Language Online this book builds on the earlier work while focusing on multilingualism in the digital world Drawing on a range of digital media from email to chatrooms and social media such as Facebook Instagram and YouTube Lee demonstrates how online multilingualism is closely linked to people's offline literacy practices and identities and examines the ways in which people draw on multilingual resources in their internet participation Bringing together central concepts in sociolinguistics and internet linguistics the eight chapters cover key issues such as language choice code switching identities language ideologies minority languages online translation Examples in the book are drawn from both all the major languages and many lesser written ones such as Chinese dialects Egyptian Arabic Irish and Welsh A chapter on methodology provides practical information for students and researchers interested in researching online multilingualism from a mixed methods and practice based approach Multilingualism Online is key reading for all students and researchers in the area of multilingualism and new media as well as those who want to know more about languages in the digital world

Language Online Carmen Lee, David Barton, 2013-04-17 In Language Online David Barton and Carmen Lee investigate the impact of the online world on the study of language The effects of language use in the digital world can be seen in every aspect of language study and new ways of researching the field are needed In this book the authors look at language online from a variety of perspectives providing a solid theoretical grounding an outline of key concepts and practical guidance on doing research Chapters cover topical issues including the relation between online language and multilingualism identity education and multimodality then conclude by looking at how to carry out research into online language use Throughout the book many examples are given from a variety of digital platforms and a number of different languages including Chinese and English Written in a clear and accessible style this is a vital read for anyone new to studying online language and an essential textbook for undergraduates and postgraduates working in the areas of new media literacy and multimodality within language and linguistics courses

The Multilingual Turn Stephen May, 2013-07-24 Drawing on the latest developments in bilingual and multilingual research The Multilingual Turn offers a critique of and alternative to still dominant monolingual theories pedagogies and practices in SLA TESOL and bilingual education Critics of the monolingual bias argue that notions such as the idealized native speaker and related concepts of interlanguage language competence and fossilization have framed these fields inextricably in relation to monolingual speaker norms In contrast these critics advocate an approach that emphasizes the multiple competencies of bi multilingual learners as the basis for successful language teaching and learning This volume takes a big step forward in re situating the issue of multilingualism more centrally in applied linguistics and in so doing making more permeable its key sub disciplinary boundaries particularly those between SLA TESOL and bilingual education It addresses this issue head on bringing together key international scholars in SLA TESOL and bilingual education to explore from cutting edge interdisciplinary perspectives what a more critical multilingual perspective might mean for theory pedagogy and practice in each of these fields

Multiculturalism, Language, and Race in English Education in Japan: Agency, Pedagogy, and Reckoning Gregory Paul Glasgow, 2023-03-15 It is claimed that the English language teaching ELT profession incorporates principles of multiculturalism tolerance and pluralism especially since it is viewed as a practical tool to promote intercultural exchange However as movements for social justice worldwide become more prevalent some stakeholders in the field are beginning to question the field's genuine commitment to such values In Japan for example is the English language truly viewed as a practical communication tool to engage with diverse interlocutors on the global stage Or do problematic discourses regarding the notion of the ownership of English and the idealized speaker of English prevail due to the lingering dichotomy between so called non native English speaking teachers NNESTs and native English speaking teachers NESTs a dichotomy that unfortunately intersects with views of ethnoracial and cultural difference and which leads to discriminatory tendencies in pedagogical practices educational cultures and social structures The overall purpose of this volume is to initiate conversations about how issues surrounding language race and multiculturalism currently inform pedagogical practice in English Language Teaching ELT in Japan We the editor and contributors intend to explore these issues with the hope that the experiences and pedagogical actions documented in this volume will motivate others to reflect on current challenges raise appreciation for diversity in ELT and dismantle inequities
