Language Planning in Primary Schools in Asia Richard Baldauf, Robert Kaplan, Knonko Kamwangamalu, Pauline Bryant, 2013-09-13 In foreign language education decisions must be taken on what languages to teach who will teach them in which schools i e all only urban only rural in which grades the number of hours a week and the cost involved This book explores the answers to these questions across a number of Asian polities It illustrates why some of the efforts undertaken are successful and why some are not why despite significant investments of time and resources some students do not seem to acquire the languages being taught and why some teachers responsible for instruction in the designated foreign languages have problems achieving fluency in the designated language or have other language teaching difficulties It suggests some strategies various polities might attempt to achieve their stated language learning objectives This book was originally published as a special issue of Current Issues in Language Planning Taylor's 7th Teaching and Learning Conference 2014 Proceedings Siew Fun Tang,Loshinikarasi Logonnathan,2015-06-01 These conference proceedings showcase a rich and practical exchange of approaches and vital evidence based practices taking place around the world They clarify the complex challenges involved in bringing about a holistic educational environment in schools and institutes of higher learning that fosters greater understanding and offer valuable insights on how to avoid the pitfalls that come with rolling out holistic approaches to education To do so the proceedings focus on the subthemes Support and Development Mobility and Diversity and Networking and Collaboration in Holistic Education ENGLISH. ,2013 modernisation of the labour market and an ever higher social demand for access to higher levels of formal education the filtering function of examinations at lower levels of schooling has been gradually eroded while burgeoning numbers of students at the upper secondary level have brought about reforms that include curricular diversification and sometimes radical overhauls of terminating assessment systems including the modification and in some instances abandonment of external examinations This edited volume brings together the experiences of twenty examination systems from around the world to show how these dynamic entities have adapted over time to the changing context of schooling Following an introduction by Stephen P Heyneman of World Bank repute there are sixteen chapters presenting Country Case Studies which have been written up under common subheadings thereby highlighting the comparative nature of the work and facilitating cross referencing The subsequent four chapters elaborate on the theme of external examinations beyond national borders including a contribution by the International Baccalaureate Organisation A defining feature of the work is the attention it pays to what it calls the nuts and bolts of external examinations from question setting to grading procedures These are it is argued instrumental in nurturing and maintaining public confidence in external examinations The book will be of immense value to people involved in educational policy studies especially strategic educational planning as well as those directly concerned with formal assessment The work has been written to appeal to a wide audience of informed persons it is accessible to teachers and interested laypeople as well as to academics
