the representation of the modern Royal Navy on British television over a fifty year period from 1973 to 2023 Contextualising his subject with significant aspects of earlier naval representation in recruiting documentary and public information films from the 1940s to the 1960s Rayner then brings his focus forward to 1973 2023 The 1970s were a significant decade for naval representation on television and saw the broadcast of two definitive series the BBC s drama series Warship and the acclaimed documentary series Sailor These landmark series set the benchmark for naval representation in both realist and in fictional portrayals They also set precedents for audience perceptions and these have affected the production and the reception of the series on the Royal Navy that have followed Rayner s work investigates how advances in technology allow programme makers to use new techniques in the spheres of naval drama and documentary More recent series also need to balance the required conventions for any portrayal of the navy on television with the revelatory or iconoclastic approaches now expected by modern audiences In focussing on the changing portrayal of the Royal Navy on television however Rayner also surfaces how the Navy itself has evolved in the post World War II world The series analysed in Screening the Fleet also evidence the changing nature and increasing diversity of the naval community as a reflection of changing notions of Britishness Offering the first study of its type this volume highlights evolving and emerging trends in factual and fact based television programmes through their portrayal of a highly popular patriotic and persistent subject over a fifty year period It debates developments in television and documentary approaches using the representation of the Royal Navy and its changing position in perceptions of British identity Diag Tests & Rubrics Allez Viens! 2003 Holt Rinehart & Winston, Holt,
