Namowitz, 1978 Spatial Cognition VII Christoph Hölscher, Thomas F. Shipley, Marta Olivetti Belardinelli, John A Bateman, Nora S Newcombe, 2010-08-09 This is the seventh volume of a series of books on fundamental research in spatial cognition As with past volumes the research presented here spans a broad range of research traditions for spatial cognition concerns not just the basic spatial behavior of biological and artificial agents but also the reasoning processes that allow spatial planning across broad spatial and temporal scales Spatial information is critical for coordinated action and thus agents interacting with objects and moving among objects must be able to perceive spatial relations learn about these relations and act on them or store the information for later use either by themselves or communicated to others Research on this problem has included both psychology which works to understand how humans and other mobile organisms solve these problems and computer science which considers the nature of the information available in the world and a formal consideration of how these problems might be solved Research on human spatial cognition also involves the application of representations and processes that may have evolved to handle object and location information to reasoning about higher order problems such as displaying non spatial information in diagrams Thus work in spatial cognition extends beyond psychology and computer science into many disciplines including geography and education The Spatial Cognition conference offers one of the few forums for consideration of the issues spanning this broad academic range

Practical Strategies for Improving Instruction Karen D. Wood, 1994 Middle level teachers are unique not just by virtue of the level of students they teach but also by the ways in which they teach This monograph emphasizes strategies that actively engage students of all ability levels promote collaboration provide for various levels of concrete and abstract thought and foster student inquiry The monograph presents approaches to assessing reading and writing cooperative learning vocabulary development reading comprehension and critical thinking and to other topics that are directly reflective of current research It provides step by step procedures along with classroom examples in a convenient and serviceable format and its research based teaching strategies are applicable to all subject areas The introduction offers an overview of the research on prevailing versus preferred instructional practices in middle schools and discusses what can be done to improve instruction in five basic areas 1 approaches to teaching 2 lesson planning and implementation 3 classroom instructional resources 4 instructional activities and arrangements and 5 promotion of higher order thinking The monograph emphasizes the following groups of strategies 1 and 2 are concerned with assessing reading and writing performance 3 through 9 center around cooperative learning as it relates to various topics 10 through 13 show practical ways to develop students vocabulary with example spanning curricular areas The remaining strategies deal with improving students comprehension and appreciation of what they read NKA Earth Science ,1987 Catalog of Copyright Entries.
