

ETHICS IN RESEARCH

Nilamadhab Kar,

Black Country Partnership NHS Foundation Trust, Wolverhampton, UK

Abstract

The article describes the importance of ethics as related to planning conducting, and publishing research. Various guidelines and Good Clinical Practice have been discussed. The article has highlighted the legal issues which are relevant to research processes. Research misconducts and their implications have considerable concern for all stakeholders from researchers to ethics committees and journal editors. Awareness regarding ethics in research has been stressed.

Key words

Ethics, Misconduct, Research, Legal issues, Conflict of Interest

Introduction

To perform appropriate clinical research, researchers must adhere to ethical standards. These standards have been developed in large part as a response to egregious violations of ethically appropriate behavior.¹ There are grave examples of violations of ethics in research which has resulted in the serious consequences for the participating subjects, researchers and society.² It is imperative to know about the ethical issues while planning, conducting, exploring the evidence and using the information gained from research. Ethics is a responsibility of all involved in research starting from individual researchers to funding organizations, central and institutional ethical committees, journal editors, participants and general public.

Historical concerns

Some of the recent examples of the ethical violations can be eye-openers. South Korea's Hwang Woo-suk was feted as a national hero when, in 2004, his research team said it had successfully cloned a human embryo and produced stem cells from it, a technique that could one day provide cures for a range of diseases. In 2006 Hwang was charged with embezzlement and bioethics law violations after it emerged much of his stem cell research had been faked. He was dismissed from the Seoul National University where he was a professor of theriogenology and biotechnology; and the South Korean government canceled his financial support and barred him from engaging in stem cell research. Hwang was sentenced to a two years suspended prison sentence in 2009.³

Another high profile case recently was that of former British surgeon and medical researcher, Andrew Wakefield who was known as an advocate for the discredited claim that there is a link between the measles, mumps and rubella (MMR) vaccine, autism and bowel disease. A General Medical Council (GMC) panel found that Wakefield had "failed in his duties as a responsible consultant", acted both against the interests of his patients, and "dishonestly and irresponsibly" in his published research. The Lancet immediately and fully retracted his 1998 publication. He was struck off the Medical Register in May 2010, with a
