Abstract

The emergence of an antibiotic-resistant bacteria introduces a challenging and new issues in the field of healthcare. An analysis involving multiple research articles was conducted in order to look for the best practice for both the prevention and the spread of the Methicillin-Resistant Staphylococcus Aureus (MRSA) in the health care setting. Its importance in the health care setting includes decreasing mortality and morbidity, providing protection to the critical medical resources, while reducing its overall burden on health. Some patients are at a relatively higher risk for contracting MRSA. As such, different avenues need to be further explored so as to prevent faster transmission. These also includes early detection, antibiotic therapy, isolation precautions, as well as hand washing. This paper will offer the best evidence for preventing the spread of this possibly fatal bacterium.

Aim of the Paper

What do literatures show as the best way in controlling the possible spread of MRSA within the health care setup? The primary aim of this paper is to look closely into the best evidences involved in controlling the potential spread of this antibiotic-resistant bacteria. It is very important to implement effective strategies in preventing within the hospital setting. This will help protect the critical medical resources, decrease mortality and morbidity, protect the patients and the facility workers, while decreasing the overall burden brought by the MRSA in the health care setting.
