

Evolution and Selection

What mechanisms lead to changes in the diversity of species on Earth?

Why?

People make choices by selecting options they like best. The natural world also 'selects' (although not as a conscious decision) when environmental conditions allow organisms with a particular genetic trait to live healthier lives than other organisms. In this activity, we will explore how selection affects populations over time.

Model 1 – Desktop Swab Results

1. What is the source of the bacteria in the culture tube in Model 1?

The bacteria in model 1 comes from the top of a desktop so it most likely came from human sources that have contact with the desk top.

2. How many genetic variants of E. coli were present in the culture from the initial swab?

There were four genetic variants of E. coli present in the initial swab.

3. What variants of E. coli are found on the dish grown without triclosan?

All four variants of E. coli are found on the dish grown without the triclosan.

4. Refer to the dish in Model 1 with the medium that included triclosan.

- a. What variants of E. coli are found on the dish grown with triclosan?

The only variant of E. coli found on the dish grown with triclosan is Variant S.

- b. What likely happened to the other variants of E. coli on the dish with the medium containing triclosan?

The other bacteria was likely killed by the triclosan.

Evolution by Natural Selection ,1974 Natural Selection Theory in Non-majors' Biology Dianne Leigh Anderson,2003 Evolution by natural selection is the dominant and unifying theme in biology yet many college students hold alternative conceptions about the topic even after completing general biology To develop effective instructional strategies and track conceptual understanding it is useful to have a detailed assessment tool easily used with large classes This study presents the Conceptual Inventory of Natural Selection CINS a distractor driven twenty item multiple choice test that assesses understanding of ten concepts related to natural selection biotic potential stable populations limited natural resources limited survival variation within a population variation inherited differential survival change in populations origin of variation and origin of species Development refinement and field testing of individual CINS items are presented and validity readability reliability and factor analysis of the CINS are described There was significant correlation between student performance on the posttest CINS and end of semester interviews suggesting that the CINS is a useful classroom tool The CINS was used as both a pretest and posttest to determine relative difficulty of the concepts among college students The three most challenging concepts were random origin of variation how populations change over time due to changing proportions of alleles and how new species originate Many students chose distractors including need as a driving force Results support the use of non traditional methods as only students in such classes demonstrated any improvement on the CINS posttest Pre and posttesting with the CINS was also used to assess relative effectiveness of using two types of supplemental reading materials selections from narrative non textbook sources or from other general biology textbooks in a general biology course These results suggest that specific content of readings was more important than style of the readings Implications for teaching both students and pre service teachers are described Evolution and Natural Selection Sophie McCormick,1982 Natural Selection , Evolution by Natural Selection. Examining Undergraduate Understanding of Natural Selection and Evolution Meena Michelle Balgopal, 2007 This dissertation explores the understanding of evolution and natural selection by zoology and biological sciences education majors in two upper division undergraduate courses To date there has been little research on evolution misconceptions held by these two populations Students misconceptions regarding evolution typically revolve around teleological and Lamarckian explanations for adaptations origin of variation and fitness There are other misconceptions however that are described in this dissertation The overarching objective of the dissertation was to identify variables that might influence the conceptual change A mixed method analysis was developed to identify instances of conceptual change that go undetected when only quantitative analyses are used Through interpretations of in depth interviews written discourse diagnostic tests instructor interviews and field notes it was discovered that students professional and personal affiliations influenced their motivation to resolve misconceptions There were three main findings of this doctoral study First the effects of direct instruction on misconceptions enabled students to identify incorrect teleological wording but did not necessarily change students writing about evolution Higher achieving students with career interests in biology were more likely to resolve their teleological misconceptions than lower achieving students Second zoology student written discourse could be divided into subjective objective and authentic categories based on personal and professional connections that students made in their writing Students who wrote authentically expressed intentions of pursuing professional biological research Third biological sciences education students were found to have composite identities based on personal and professional affiliations which either hindered or enhanced their motivation to resolve evolution misconceptions Students personal affiliations to religious communities of practice did not hinder their motivation to understand evolution However students fears of a not being able to resolve competing religious and scientific explanations for diversity of life and or b not being prepared to defend evolution concepts to their employers and students were factors that influenced their motivation to learn Biological sciences education students appeared to identify themselves as sharers of scientific knowledge not as producers of scientific knowledge I posit that identity plays a role in the conceptual change process Evolution by Natural Selection, 1971 Science Foundation Course M.J.
