

A man with curly brown hair and a mustache is sitting on a wooden bench. He is wearing a blue and white plaid shirt and khaki pants. He is looking off to the side with a thoughtful expression. Behind him is a green train car with the words "FAIRBANKS CITY TRANSIT SYSTEM" written in black letters. The train car has several windows and rivets. The scene is outdoors with some greenery in the foreground and background.

Wild Tales from the Wild Saad Bin Jung, 2011-04-06 For the weary urban dweller the verdant Mangala valley near the Bandipur National Park in Karnataka would seem like a haven of peace and tranquility Appearances could not be more deceptive as Saad Bin Jung discovered after forsaking his life in the city for a stone cottage in the valley If the surrounding jungles were teeming with wildlife of every variety the life that the human of the area led was no less wild Here he recounts the adventures that he had with some of them the leopard who moved into bison cottage the dining hall cobra the magnificent Mangala tiger Torn Ears the most photographed gaur of his time and the elephants whom he loved with a passion Colonel Hathi Jayaprakash and even the Rightchipped Tusker with his bullying ways amongst them Not to be outdone were the members of the Kuruba tribe and other humans Mr B the family expert the elderly manager with a raging libido the gorgeous foreign girls who almost saw him booted out of the family who came to share his life at Bush Betta the wildlife resort that he set up in 1991 Hair raising and hilarious these are stories that anyone who has had a taste of the wild or wished that they could will enjoy as much for their drama and comedy as for the many fascinating insights into animal behaviour that they provide No less compelling is the message between the lines the grandeur and beauty of India's forests and the need to preserve them at all costs

Shooting in the Wild Chris Palmer, 2010-05-05 Wildlife and nature films are a hugely popular entertainment genre networks such as Animal Planet and Discovery are stars in the cable television universe viewers flock to IMAX theaters to see jaw dropping footage from the wild and the venerable BBC still scores triumphs with series such as Planet Earth As cinematic technology brings ever more breathtaking images to the screen and as our direct contact with nature diminishes an ever expanding audience craves the indirect experience of wild nature that these films provide But this success has a dark side as Chris Palmer reveals in his authoritative and engrossing report on the wildlife film business A veteran producer and film educator Palmer looks past the headlines about TV host Steve Irwin's death by stingray and filmmaker Timothy Treadwell falling prey to his beloved grizzlies to uncover a more pervasive and troubling trend toward sensationalism extreme risk taking and even abuse in wildlife films He tracks the roots of this trend to the early days of the genre and he profiles a new breed of skilled ethical filmmakers whose work enlightens as well as entertains and who represent the future that Palmer envisions for the industry he loves
