Teaching Psychology around the World (Volume 4) Alfredo Padilla-López, Grant J. Rich, Luciana Karine de Souza, 2018-10-19 This book provides a one-volume overview of psychology's globalization and will serve as a handbook for psychology professors around the globe wanting to internationalize and diversify their courses and curricula and seeking innovative ideas to enrich their teaching. Topics covered include practical tips to diversify specific courses such as abnormal psychology, lifespan development, and psychotherapy, and innovative methods of assessment of student learning. Additionally, a number of chapters focus on describing the training of psychologists and the history and future of psychology education in various nations and regions. Co-edited by six distinguished international academics, the thirty-three chapters represent each major geographic region around the world, with authors based in nations in Africa, Asia, Australia, Europe, Latin America, and North America. Instructors of cross-cultural, cultural, and international psychology and of multicultural education will be especially interested in the book, as will program evaluators, policy makers, and university administrators.

Starting Points in Critical Language Pedagogy Graham V. Crookes, Arman Abednia, 2022-01-01 Critical language pedagogy, also sometimes referred to as critical ELT, where English is the primary language involved, has a literature in which theoretical and specialized work has outstripped more practically oriented material. Nevertheless, even practically oriented publications in this area tend to address the experienced, well-resourced teacher, as opposed to those beginning in this area or those without much professional support. With a view to helping prepare second language teachers to begin to engage with critical language pedagogy, the authors of this book start from areas of conventional L2 curriculum that teachers naturally use. Each chapter presents material pertinent to areas of language teaching and course delivery, starting from a fairly conventional perspective. It then attempts to explain how this conception can be extended drawing upon the ideas of critical language pedagogy and teachers experiences The authors experience of working with teachers who work under different circumstances in teacher education courses and workshops form key elements of the book Teachers voices are also given adequate space so as to provide a comprehensive picture and situated understanding of critical language pedagogy Dialogical engagement with the initial perspectives of beginning critical language pedagogy teachers who do not necessarily have a fully worked out critical philosophy of teaching or those who wish to practice critical ELT is another feature of the book Finally to strengthen the practical orientation of the book teaching strategies and extracts of materials and lesson plans are also provided aeronautical communication Contemporary Intellectual Assessment, Third Edition Dawn P. Flanagan, Patti L. Harrison, 2012-01-24 In one volume this authoritative reference presents a current comprehensive overview of intellectual and cognitive assessment with a focus on practical applications. Leaders in the field describe major theories of intelligence and provide the knowledge needed to use the latest measures of cognitive abilities with individuals of all ages from toddlers to adults. Evidence-based approaches to test interpretation and their relevance for intervention are described. The book addresses critical issues in assessing particular populations including culturally and linguistically diverse students, gifted students and those with learning difficulties and disabilities in today's educational settings. New to This Edition: Incorporates major research advances and legislative and policy changes. Covers recent test revisions plus additional tests: the NEPSY II and the Wechsler Nonverbal Scale of Ability. Expanded coverage of specific populations: chapters on autism spectrum disorders, attention deficit hyperactivity disorder, sensory and physical disabilities, and traumatic brain injury and intellectual disabilities. Chapters on neuropsychological approaches, assessment of executive functions, and multi-tiered service delivery models in schools. Research in Young Children's Literacy and Language Development Olivia N. Saracho, 2019-12-13 The importance of the early years in young children's lives and the rigid inequality in literacy achievement are a stimulating backdrop to current research in young children's language and literacy development. This book reports new data and empirical analyses that advance the theory of language and literacy with researchers using different methodologies in conducting their study with both a sound empirical underpinning and a captivating analytical rationalization of the results. The contributors to this volume used several methodological methods, e.g., quantitative, qualitative, to describe the complete concept of the study, the achievement of the study, and the study in an appropriate manner based on the study's methodology. The contributions to this volume cover a wide range of topics including dual language learners, Latino immigrant children, children who have hearing disabilities, parents and teachers' beliefs about language development, early literacy skills of toddlers and preschool children, interventions, multimodalities in early literacies, writing, and family literacy. The studies were conducted in various early childhood settings such as child care, nursery school, Head Start, kindergarten, and primary grades, and the subjects in the studies represent the pluralism of the globe: a pluralism of language backgrounds, ethnicity, abilities, and disabilities. This book was originally published as a special issue of Early Child Development and Care.

Cross-linguistic Transfer in Reading in Multilingual Contexts Elena Zaretsky, Mila Schwartz, 2016-10-03 This book represents concurrent attempts of multiple researchers to address the issue of cross-linguistic transfer in literacy. It includes a broad spectrum of languages and reflects a new generation of conceptualizations of cross-linguistic transfer, offering a different level of complexity by studying children who are trilingual and even learning a fourth language. The collection of papers in this volume tried to capture the dynamic developmental changes in cross-linguistic transfer that include such factors as age of acquisition, typological proximity of L1 and L2 and L3, L4, intensity of exposure to language and reading in ambient and newly acquired language's quality of input and home literacy. More stringent methodological considerations allowed to isolate specific constructs that suggest either primary levels of children's metalinguistic abilities: phonological awareness that can be applied cross linguistically or a more language specific constructs: morphological awareness that relies on various factors including typological proximity, language proficiency and task demands.
