place in the universe and find your own unique and personal Happy      Making Kids Cleverer David Didau, 2018-12-20 In Making Kids Cleverer A manifesto for closing the advantage gap David Didau reignites the nature vs nurture debate around intelligence and offers research informed guidance on how teachers can help their students acquire a robust store of knowledge and skills that is both powerful and useful Foreword by Paul A Kirschner Given the choice who wouldn't want to be cleverer What teacher wouldn't want this for their students and what parent wouldn't wish it for their children When David started researching this book he thought the answers to the above were obvious But it turns out that the very idea of measuring and increasing children's intelligence makes many people extremely uncomfortable If some people were more intelligent where would that leave those of us who weren't The question of whether or not we can get cleverer is a crucial one If you believe that intelligence is hereditary and environmental effects are trivial you may be sceptical But environment does matter and it matters most for children from the most socially disadvantaged backgrounds those who not only have the most to gain but who are also the ones most likely to gain from our efforts to make all kids cleverer And one thing we can be fairly sure will raise children's intelligence is sending them to school In this wide ranging enquiry into psychology sociology philosophy and cognitive science David argues that with greater access to culturally accumulated information taught explicitly within a knowledge rich curriculum children are more likely to become cleverer to think more critically and subsequently to live happier healthier and more secure lives Furthermore by sharing valuable insights into what children truly need to learn during their formative school years he sets out the numerous practical ways in which policy makers and school leaders can make better choices about organising schools and how teachers can communicate the knowledge that will make the most difference to young people as effectively and efficiently as possible David underpins his discussion with an exploration of the evolutionary basis for learning and also untangles the forms of practice teachers should be engaging their students in to ensure that they are acquiring expertise not just consolidating mistakes and misconceptions There are so many competing suggestions as to how we should improve education that knowing how to act can seem an impossible challenge Once you have absorbed the arguments in this book however David hopes you will find the simple question that he asks himself whenever he encounters new ideas and initiatives Will this make children cleverer as useful as he does Suitable for teachers school leaders policy makers and anyone involved in education      Where the Mountain Casts Its Shadow Maria Coffey, 2007-04-01 Maria Coffey's Where the Mountain Casts Its Shadow is a powerful affecting and important book that exposes the far reaching personal costs of extreme adventure Without risk say mountaineers there would be none of the self knowledge that comes from pushing life to its extremes For them perhaps it is worth the cost But when tragedy strikes what happens to the people left behind Why would anyone choose to invest in a future with a high altitude risk taker What is life like in the shadow of the mountain Such questions have long been taboo in the world of mountaineering Now the spouses parents and children of internationally renowned climbers finally break their silence speaking out about the dark side of adventure Maria Coffey confronted one of the harshest realities of mountaineering when her partner Joe Tasker disappeared on the Northeast Ridge of Everest in 1982 In Where the Mountain Casts Its Shadow Coffey offers an intimate portrait of adventure and the conflicting beauty passion and devastation of this alluring obsession Through interviews with the world's top climbers or their widows and families Jim Wickwire Conrad Anker Lynn Hill Joe Simpson Chris Bonington Ed Viesturs Anatoli Boukreev Alex Lowe and many others she explores what compels men and women to give their lives to the high mountains She asks why despite the countless tragedies the world continues to laud their exploits With an insider's understanding Coffey reveals the consequences of loving people who pursue such risk the exhilarating highs and inevitable lows the stress of long separations the constant threat of bereavement and the lives shattered in the wake of climbing accidents
