Metamorphosis, Landscape, and Trauma in

Greco-Roman Myth Esther Eidinow, 2025-09-30 This study explores the hidden histories offered by Greco-Roman myths of metamorphosis and what they can reveal about the lived experience of ancient men and women It investigates the role of the body and the embodied experiences of emotions in these stories arguing that these narratives of transformation allow us to glimpse aspects of our historical subjects which in other sources remain largely unseen In these narratives of metamorphosis we discover ancient worldviews they disclose the perceived inter relationships of human non human and more than human entities They show us that the human body was understood not only as a part of an extended network of beings but also to consist of and interact with the same substances that were believed to comprise the surrounding landscapes earth air fire and water By grouping together stories according to these elements this study highlights the patterns that underline different metamorphoses comparing the experiences of male and female protagonists These stories it argues express risks of transgressions both for individuals and for the wider community They tell us about the dangers that were perceived to be inherent in social roles and in relations with the gods they describe bodies both at risk and of risk And among those risks are extreme emotions appearing as both cause and result of these startling bodily changes These are narratives of the body that capture one of its most ephemeral aspects the experience of intense even traumatic emotions in which a person and the world around them comes to seem transformed Drawing on psychological research this study suggests that these stories evoke experiences that persist across time and place conveying an experience of the emotional body that speaks to us still An open access title available under the terms of a CC BY NC ND 4.0 licence

Men and Women in Qing China

Edwards, 2021-09-13 Men and Women in Qing China is an analysis of Chinese prescriptions of gender as represented in Cao Xueqin's famous eighteenth century Chinese novel of manners The Red Chamber Dream or The Story of the Stone Drawing on feminist literary critical methods it examines Qing notions of masculinity and femininity including themes such as bisexuality motherhood virginity and purity and gender and power Its central aim is to challenge the common assumption that the novel represents some form of early Chinese feminism by examining the text in conjunction with historical data The book will be especially important to those interested in issues of gender in China the history of Chinese literary criticism and the application of feminist theory to the Asian text

Methodist Devotion Gordon S. Wakefield, 2018-06-26 This term Christian Spirituality has become very fashionable but requires definition It derives from one of the classifications habitual to the Church of Rome and formulated by M l Abb Pourrat in his La Spiritualit Chr tienne He distinguishes between Dogmatic Moral and Spiritual Theology and the greatest of these is Spiritual Theology which is based upon the others but is above them in so far as it is a branch of the science which deals not with abstract statements of faith and objective laws of conduct but with the life in Christ itself the reality of that union with Him which all traditions in some form would assert as the meaning of our salvation From the Preface
