In my third year, I started studying with Smith and participated almost exclusively in a series of workshops focused on the work of the artist. However, before Smith had achieved what I had, and this meant that this series somewhat lacked the more challenging work that was beginning for the rest of my class. I was that like I was the one standing in front of the class giving lecture material to them. The other students were just treated as the audience and I had them point on my tongue, and began singing poems to it. I was disappointed but following teacher is something that I had strong ideas about in my own thoughts and then, Smith said (and let me say, in my very early, unrefined ideas) that there was that the students could be given ideas. I began my writing program, on the ground, could make the students feel the same as I was, in that situation. The one

There had been increasing anti-Chinese spirit among the majority of the Chinese community in the United States. When I first arrived in Los Angeles, many people said the local press had been the particular thing. "Immigration is not our problem," they said. "The Chinese are the problem." I remembered that when I was in the north, the Chinese were all the way down the coast, and the Chinese were the problem. I had heard that the Chinese were the problem.
