Clements-Croome, 2013-10-08 This book introduces the concept of Intelligent Buildings to the wider construction community Edited by the Father of Intelligent Buildings Derek Clements Croome the book explains that intelligent buildings should be sustainable healthy technologically aware meet the needs of occupants and business and should be flexible and adaptable to deal with change This means the processes of planning design construction commissioning and facilities management including post occupancy evaluation are all important Buildings comprise many systems devised by many people and yet the relationship between buildings and people can only work satisfactorily if there is an integrated team with a holistic vision

Applied Mechanics Reviews ,1991

An Introduction to Mathematical Finance with Applications Arlie O.

Petters, Xiaoying Dong, 2016-06-17 This textbook aims to fill the gap between those that offer a theoretical treatment without many applications and those that present and apply formulas without appropriately deriving them. The balance achieved will give readers a fundamental understanding of key financial ideas and tools that form the basis for building realistic models including those that may become proprietary. Numerous carefully chosen examples and exercises reinforce the student's conceptual understanding and facility with applications. The exercises are divided into conceptual application based and theoretical problems which probe the material deeper. The book is aimed toward advanced undergraduates and first year graduate students who are new to finance or want a more rigorous treatment of the mathematical models used within. While no background in finance is assumed, prerequisite math courses include multivariable calculus, probability, and linear algebra. The authors introduce additional mathematical tools as needed. The entire textbook is appropriate for a single year long course on introductory mathematical finance. The self-contained design of the text allows for instructor flexibility in topics, courses, and those focusing on financial derivatives. Moreover, the text is useful for mathematicians, physicists, and engineers who want to learn finance via an approach that builds their financial intuition and is explicit about model building as well as business school students who want a treatment of finance that is deeper but not overly theoretical.

Splintering Urbanism Steve Graham, Simon Marvin, 2002-09-11. Splintering Urbanism makes an international and interdisciplinary analysis of the complex interactions between infrastructure networks and urban spaces. It delivers a new and powerful way of understanding contemporary urban change, bringing together discussions about globalization and the city, technology and society, urban space and urban networks, infrastructure and the built environment, developed, developing, and post communist worlds. With a range of case studies, illustrations, and boxed examples from New York to Jakarta, Johannesburg to Manila, and Sao Paulo to Melbourne, Splintering Urbanism demonstrates the latest social, urban, and technological theories which give us an understanding of our contemporary metropolis.

Smart Urbanism Simon Marvin, Andrés Luque-Ayala, Colin McFarlane, 2015-12-14. Smart Urbanism (SU) the rebuilding of cities through the integration of digital technologies with buildings, neighbourhoods, networked infrastructures, and people is being represented as a unique, emerging solution to the majority of problems faced by cities today. SU discourses enacted by technology companies, national governments, and supranational agencies alike claim a supremacy of urban digital technologies for managing and controlling infrastructures, achieving greater effectiveness in managing service demand and reducing carbon emissions, developing greater social interaction and community networks, providing new services around health and social care, etc. Smart urbanism is being represented as the response to almost every facet of the contemporary urban question. This book explores this common conception of the problematic of smart urbanism and critically addresses what new capabilities are being created by whom and with what exclusions, how these are being developed and contested, where is this happening both within and between cities and with what sorts of social and material consequences.

The aim of the book is to identify and convene a currently fragmented and disconnected group of researchers commentators developers and users from both within and outside the mainstream SU discourse including several of those that adopt a more critical perspective to assess what problems of the city smartness can address The volume provides the first internationally comparative assessment of SU in cities of the global north and south critically evaluates whether current visions of SU are able to achieve their potential and then identifies alternative trajectories for SU that hold radical promise for reshaping cities
