Asbestos is a naturally occurring mineral that has been used in a wide variety of products for over 100 years. It is a soft, fibrous material that can be woven into cloth or made into a powder. Asbestos was once considered a miracle material because of its strength and heat resistance. However, it is now known to be a health hazard. Asbestos fibers can be inhaled and cause lung disease and cancer. The Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) has set strict limits on the amount of asbestos that can be released into the air. Asbestos is still found in many old buildings and products, so it is important to be aware of it and take steps to remove it if necessary.
