Language And Translation In Postcolonial Literatures:

Language and Translation in Postcolonial Literatures Simona Bertacco, 2013-12-17 This collection gathers together a stellar group of contributors offering innovative perspectives on the issues of language and translation in postcolonial studies. In a world where bi and multilingualism have become quite normal, this volume identifies a gap in the critical apparatus in postcolonial studies in order to read cultural texts emerging out of multilingual contexts. The role of translation and an awareness of the multilingual spaces in which many postcolonial texts are written are fundamental issues with which postcolonial studies needs to engage in a far more concerted fashion. The essays in this book by contributors from Australia, New Zealand, Zimbabwe, Cyprus, Malaysia, Quebec, Ireland, France, Scotland, the US, and Italy outline a pragmatics of language and translation of value to scholars with an interest in the changing forms of literature and culture in our times. Essay topics include multilingual textual politics, the benefits of multilingual education in postcolonial countries, the language of gender and sexuality in postcolonial literatures, translational cities, postcolonial calligraphy, globalization, and the new digital ecology.

Postcolonial Translation Susan Bassnett, Susan Bassnett (S. Editor), Harish Trivedi, 2012-10-12 This outstanding collection brings together eminent contributors from Britain, the US, Brazil, India, and Canada to examine crucial interconnections between postcolonial theory and translation studies. Examining the relationships between language and power across cultural boundaries, this collection reveals the vital role of translation in redefining the meanings of culture and ethnic identity. The essay topics include links between centre and margins, intellectual transfer, shifts in translation practice from colonial to postcolonial societies, translation and power relations in Indian languages, Brazilian cannibalistic theories in literary transfer.

Translation as Reparation Paul Bandia, 2014-06-03

Translation as Reparation showcases postcolonial Africa by offering African European language literature as a case study for postcolonial translation theory and proposes a new perspective for postcolonial literary criticism informed by theories of translation. The book focuses on translingualism and interculturality in African Europhone literature highlighting the role of oral culture and artistry in the writing of fiction. The fictionalizing of African orature in postcolonial literature is viewed in terms of translation and an intercultural writing practice which challenge the canons of colonial linguistic propriety through the subversion of social and linguistic conventions. The study opens up pathways for developing new insights into the ethics of translation as it raises issues related to the politics of language ideology identity accented writing and translation. It confirms the place of translation theory in literary criticism and affirms the importance of translation in the circulation of texts particularly those from minority cultures in the global marketplace. Grounded in a multidisciplinary approach the book will be of interest to students and scholars in a variety of fields including translation studies African literature and culture sociolinguistics and multilingualism postcolonial and intercultural studies.

In Translation Paul St-Pierre, Prafulla C. Kar, 2007-01-01. With contributions by researchers from India Europe North America and the Caribbean. In Translation Reflections, refractions, transformations touches on questions of method and on topics including copyright cultural hybridity globalization identity construction and minority languages which are important for the disciplinary development of translation studies but also of interest to other fields as well most notably comparative literature cultural studies and world literature. The volume provides a forum for new voices to be heard alongside those of well established scholars and for current concerns to express themselves often focusing on practices in areas of the world other than Europe or North America which have until now tended to dominate the field. Acknowledging difference and celebrating it the contributions conceive of translation as a process which reconstitutes and transforms which brings renewal and growth an interaction in a new context a new reading a new writing.

Reconfiguring and Appropriating Arabic, Persian, and Indic Literary Traditions in Seventeenth- and Eighteenth-Century Britain Claire Gallien, 2025-03-20. Reconfiguring and Appropriating Arabic Persian and Indic Literary Traditions in Seventeenth and Eighteenth Century Britain investigates the reconfigurations of literary traditions coming from Islamicate regions of the world by British orientalists. Claire Gallien explores the logics of orientalist selection reconfiguration and appropriation of Islamicate literary canons and focuses on the period going from the endowment of the first chairs in Arabic at Cambridge and Oxford in 1632 and 1636 respectively to the establishment of the Asiatic Society in Calcutta in 1784 presided by Sir William Jones until 1794. Contrary to the Saidian premise of an invention of the East by the West Gallien argues that orientalists did not invent a canon but they transferred and translated texts and authors which who were already recognised as canonical across Islamicate literary cultures. Given the above the question that preoccupies this book is what happens to the canon when partially re created and re purposed for European readers. Organised in three main parts this book analyses first the constitution of collections of Arabic Persian and Indic manuscripts.

and their cataloguing in England in the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries The second part investigates the variety of linguistic and literary partitioning and assemblage proposed by orientalist and discusses how their classical literary formation underpinned theories and practices of imitation translation and writing The third part examines the editing and translating of Arabic Persian and Indic literatures in seventeenth and eighteenth century England as well as in British colonial India and in particular the function of specimens and anthologies in the constitution of a corpus of Eastern literatures in English
