Religious Perspectives on Social Responsibility in Health Joseph Tham, Chris Durante, Alberto García Gómez, 2018-04-26

This book discusses the meaning and implications of the social and ethical implications of the notion of social responsibility in healthcare in six major world religions: Buddhism, Christianity, Confucianism, Hinduism, Islam, and Judaism. This collection of papers is based on a four-day workshop where bioethics experts from various religious traditions gathered. They discussed the ways in which their respective traditions could or could not uphold the tenets of Article 14 of UNESCO's Universal Declaration of Bioethics and Human Rights. The different papers presented in this book are based on this interchange of ideas at the workshop. The book explores the potential points of convergence among the various perspectives presented as well as a discussion on the ways in which their moral differences may be managed. The managing of these moral differences through international socio-ethical mechanisms contributes significantly to the UNESCO Universal Declaration of Bioethics and Human Rights goal of simultaneously respecting religious-cultural pluralism while upholding a commitment to human rights.

Towards an embodied science of intersubjectivity: Widening the scope of social understanding research

Ezequiel Di Paolo, Hanne De Jaegher, 2015-06-16. An important amount of research effort in psychology and neuroscience over the past decades has focused on the problem of social cognition. This problem is understood as how we figure out other minds relying only on indirect manifestations of other people's intentional states which are assumed to be hidden, private, and internal. Research on this question has mostly investigated how individual cognitive mechanisms achieve this task. A shift in the internalist assumptions regarding intentional states has expanded the research focus with hypotheses that explore the role of interactive phenomena and interpersonal histories and their implications for understanding individual cognitive processes. This interactive expansion of the conceptual and methodological toolkit for investigating social cognition we now propose can be followed by an expansion into wider and deeply related research questions beyond but including that of social cognition narrowly construed. Our social lives are populated by different kinds of cognitive and affective phenomena that are related to but not exhausted by the question of how we figure out other minds. These phenomena include acting and perceiving together, verbal and non-verbal engagement, experiences of disconnection, management of relations in a group, joint meaning-making, intimacy, trust, conflict, negotiation, asymmetric relations, material mediation of social interaction, collective action, contextual engagement with socio-cultural norms, structures, and roles, etc. These phenomena are often characterized by a strong participation by the cognitive agent in contrast with the spectatorial stance typical of social cognition research. We use the broader notion of embodied intersubjectivity to refer to this wider set of phenomena. This Research Topic aims to investigate relations between these different issues to help lay strong foundations for a science of intersubjectivity, the social mind writ large. To contribute to this goal, we encouraged contributions in psychology, neuroscience, psychopathology, philosophy, and cognitive science that address this wider scope of intersubjectivity by extending the range of explanatory factors from purely individual to interactive from observational to participatory

Research Handbook on Polar Law Karen N. Scott, David L. VanderZwaag, 2020-12-25 This timely Research Handbook explores the concept of polar law as a coherent body of law and as a set of rules and principles that applies to both the Arctic and Antarctic. It captures the evolution of polar law and policy identifying future directions for research in this emerging and growing field. Janet Frame in Focus Josephine A. McQuail, 2018-01-26 New Zealand author Janet Frame 1924-2004 during her lifetime published 11 novels three collections of short stories a volume of poetry and a children's book. The details of her life her tragic early years her confinement in a psychiatric hospital and her miraculous reprieve overshadow her work and she remains largely neglected by scholars. These essays focus on Frame's autobiography short stories and novels.

Contributors from around the world explore a range of topics including her mother's Christadelphian faith her relationships with two 20th century icons William Theophilus Brown and John Money and a view of Frame in the context of trauma studies. Two of the essays were presented at the 2014 Northeast Modern Language Association convention. Art and Future Peter Stupples, Jane Venis, 2018-04-18 This selection of essays examines the future of art in a changing world. In particular contributors discuss the agency of art in conditions of ecological threats to the natural world to climate change and the effects of globalisation neoliberal economics and mass tourism. Following the lead of Chicago based Frances Whitehead whose essay is a key text some contributors take positions on working with local government agencies to embed art thinking within development projects going back to the art thinking at the centre of Kazimir Malevich's work in Vitebsk one hundred years ago in Russia. Other papers highlight small scale art interventions that bring ecological issues to public notice and suggest positive responses whilst others discuss large scale problems brought about by the social economic and laissez faire history of the emerging Anthropocene with possible dystopic outcomes. Power and Energy Richard Kong, 2015-05-06

Power and Energy contains 86 selected papers from the International Conference on Power and Energy CPE 2014 Shanghai China 29-30 November 2014 and presents a wide range of topics Energy management planning and policy making Energy technologies and environment Energy prospects Conventional and renewable power generation Power system man

Analysis of Creationism in the United States from Scopes (1925) to Kitzmiller (2005) and its Effect on the Nation's Science Education System Elizabeth Watts, 2018 Creationism is based on a fundamental belief in the inerrancy of the bible and negatively affects science education because creationist proponents insist on the inclusion of supernatural explanations for the appearance of species in particular the origin of humans. This detrimental effect on education is particularly relevant in the United States where almost 70% of the population rejects the idea of naturalistic evolution and the majority of American students struggle to meet the college readiness benchmarks in science and math. This dissertation provides a comprehensive look at the issue from historical judicial and educational perspectives. Twenty four legal cases in the United States regarding anti evolutionary strategies were analyzed in detail. Strategic trends were identified ranging from the statewide banning of evolution in public schools to the required teaching of Creation Science The exact effect of creationist political activity was discerned through the analysis of state science standards and textbook adoption processes which illustrated the creationists ability to lobby for a diminished coverage of evolution in science standards and textbooks It was found that despite attempts made by scientific and educational agencies to provide guidelines such as the Next Generation Science Standards the majority of American state science standards continue to be sub par and one of the major flaws of these standards is the overall attempt to weaken the coverage of evolution throughout the standards A similar loss of quality occurs in textbooks since publishers engage in self censorship in order to avoid controversial topics such as evolution in order to prevent their books from being rejected An examination of the free choice learning materials revealed that creationist proponents are very active and successful in producing books films and museums for the sole purpose of promoting creationism Moreover a brief look at the creationist movement in Germany provided a powerful comparison to the United States and elucidated the key components necessary for a creationist movement to exist and flourish namely the presence of fundamentalist willing to fight to get anti evolutionary materials introduced into science classrooms This study provides new insights into the creationist phenomenon present not only in the United States but also increasingly present in European countries such as Germany Understanding the detrimental link between creationism and science education will help the science community realize that this topic needs to be continually readdressed and that it is imperative that these creationist trends are not dismissed as inconsequential

Preventing Environmental Damage from Products Eléonore Maitre,Eléonore Maitre-Ekern,Carl Dalhammar,Hans Christian Bugge,2018-04-19 Explores the emerging and complex field of environmental product law and brings in new perspectives for research

The Cambridge Handbook of Information Technology, Life Sciences and Human Rights Marcello Ienca,Oreste Pollicino,Laura Liguori,Elisa Stefanini,Roberto Andorno,2022-05-26 Debates on the human rights implications of new and emerging technologies have been hampered by the lack of a comprehensive theoretical framework for the complex issues involved This volume provides that framework bringing a multidisciplinary and international perspective to the evolution of human rights in the digital and biotechnological era It delves into the latest frontiers of technological innovation in the life sciences and information technology sectors such as neurotechnology robotics genetic engineering and artificial intelligence. Leading experts from the technological, medical and social sciences as well as law, philosophy and business share their extensive knowledge about the transformation of the rights framework in response to technological innovation. In addition to providing a comprehensive interdisciplinary and international state of the art descriptive analysis, the volume also offers policy recommendations to protect and promote human rights in the context of emerging socio-technological trends.
