1 why use a conical flask instead of a beaker?	I put it has a smaller opening than a beaker so less gas lost?? You want to lose gas? - I am pretty sure this is the right answer, well it decreases the rate of gas no loss so easier to measure the rate. It doesn't reduce the rate of gas loss as this only depends on the concentration of reactants No splashing This was jokes Reactants don't stick to the side what??????? they would stick a little regardless	what was the cotton wool in that diagram for lolz it threw me off I put that the liquid would be shallower with larger surface area so gas produced could escape quicker I put larger surface area for to heat mixture more evenly? I said this too You dont want to have a large opening bc the acid may be lost due to the bubbles forming. Anything about swirling? I wrote swirling	1
rate at 2 minutes.	0.5 g min<sup>-1</sup>? This is correct. A range of values typically accepted. I got 0.4 so yeah they'll accept a range AS LONG as they can see how you worked it out. G min<sup>-1</sup> ? Yeah but if u changed to seconds it wouldn't really matter as long as u put g per second Mol Dm<sup>-3</sup>s<sup>-1</sup> +	I got 0.02, you had to convert to mols - you didn't have to, any appropriate units would be fine I got like 0.0175 gs<sup>-1</sup> - Same here - yeah just rounded Gmin<sup>-1</sup> no? Is it not gmin<sup>-1</sup> the graph was in minutes I converted the minutes to seconds and put my units with seconds as well, any idea if thats okay? Yes	3

Cities in South Asia Crispin Bates, Minoru Mio, 2015-05-22 Globalisation has long historical roots in South Asia but economic liberalisation has led to uniquely rapid urban growth in South Asia during the past decade This book brings together a multidisciplinary collection of chapters on contemporary and historical themes explaining this recent explosive growth and transformations on going in the cities of this region The essays in this volume attempt to shed light on the historical roots of these cities and the traditions that are increasingly placed under strain by modernity as well as exploring the lived experience of a new generation of city dwellers and their indelible impact on those who live at the city's margins The book discusses that previously cities such as Mumbai grew by accumulating a vast hinterland of slum dwellers who depressed wages and supplied cheap labour to the city's industrial economy. However, it goes on to show that the new growth of cities such as Bangalore, Hyderabad and Madras in south India or Delhi and Calcutta in the north of India is more capital intensive, export driven and oriented towards the information technology and service sectors. The book explains that these cities have attracted a new elite of young educated workers with money to spend and an outlook on life that is often a complex mix of modern ideas and conservative tradition. It goes on to cover topics such as the politics of town planning, consumer culture and the struggles among multiple identities in the city. By tracing the genealogies of cities, it gives a useful insight into the historical conditioning that determines how cities negotiate new changes and influences. There will soon be more mega cities in South Asia than anywhere else in the world, and this book provides an in-depth analysis of this growth. It will be of interest to students and scholars of South Asian History, Politics and Anthropology as well as those working in the fields of urbanisation and globalisation.

The Second World War and the 'Other British Isles' Daniel Travers, 2018-06-28. What is often held to be Britain's finest hour, the Second World War, was not experienced so uniformly across the British Isles. On the margins, the war was endured in profoundly different ways. While D-Day or Dunkirk is embedded in British collective memory, how many Britons can recall that Finns were interned on the Isle of Man, that enemy soldiers developed British infrastructure in Orkney, or that British subjects were sent to concentration camps from Guernsey? Such experiences tangential to the dominant British war narrative are commemorated elsewhere in the other British Isles. In this remarkable contribution to British Island Studies, Daniel Travers pursues these histories and their commemoration across numerous local sites of memory, museums, heritage sites and public spaces. He examines the way these island identities assert their own distinctiveness over the British wartime story and ultimately the way they fit into the ongoing discourse about how the memory of the Second World War has been constructed since 1945.
