Great Expectations Commission on the Social Sciences, 2017-10-19 The social sciences in the United Kingdom are extensive diverse and influential At any one time more than four million students study the social sciences in schools and about a half million students study social science in universities Total university income from the social sciences is at the four billion dollar level Beyond that many social scientists hold key positions in government business the media civil service and the voluntary sector Great Expectations reviews the status of the social sciences in Great Britain at the beginning of the twenty first century While making clear that work opportunities for social scientists are substantial and that levels of intellectual performance equal that of graduates in physics it provides a hard hitting empirically grounded examination of a near crisis situation The report goes far beyond what one conventionally expects in commissioned reports arguing that the academic treadmill driven by excessive accountability burdens reduces the originality and quality of much academic research The report emphasizes the ideological and parochial nature of much British social research As a result there is little applicability internationally even less interdisciplinary work and at times an outright bias against the market economy as such The Commission Report is even handed tough minded and frank in discussing how it is that social science and new social and technical forces do not always mesh The optimism exuded is measured but genuine Great Expectations offers policy recommendations and scientific goals that can be serviceable not only in the United Kingdom but in all advanced societies in which social research is a central component of economic stability and development It is a superb reference volume enriched by original analysis and pungent clear headed writing Members of the commission include Professor David Rhind Vice Chancellor of the City University served as Chairman of the Commission Members included Huw Beynon Cardiff Patricia Broadbent Bristol Vicki Bruce Edinburgh Barry Buzzan LSE Sue Duncan Government Researcher Stuart Etherington National Council for Voluntary Organizations Janet Lewis Oxford Denise Lievesley UNESCO Richard Portes LBS Marc Renaud Research Council of Canada Michael Tonry Cambridge and David Walker The Guardian

The Life and Death of Secondary Education for All Richard Pring, 2013-05-07 Is there life after death for secondary education This book focuses upon the quality of learning Reform so called too often begins with qualifications examinations institutional provision paths of progression All those are very important but their value lies in the support they give to learners and their learning in its different forms One needs to start with the aims of education and then with what it means to learn practically theoretically morally and with the very many different needs of the learners That is what this book aims to do In so doing it will be both philosophical in analysis and empirical in example So much is happening from down below that goes unrecognised by policy makers But innovations too often get hampered by government interventions by a bureaucratic mentality and by failure to spread good practice The general argument of the book therefore will be illustrated throughout with detailed references to practical developments in schools colleges the third sector youth work independent training providers and professional bodies across several countries The book builds on Education for All which was based on 14 19 research into secondary education this book transcends the particularities of England and Wales and digs more deeply into those issues which are at the heart of educational controversy policy and practices and which survive the transience of political change and controversy The issues the aims of education standards of performance the consequent vision of learning the role of teachers progression from school to higher or further education and into employment the provision of such education and training and the control of education are by no means confined to the UK or to this day and age Pring identifies similar problems in other countries such as the USA Germany and France and indeed in the Greece of Plato and Aristotle and offers solutions with a comparative perspective It is a critical time Old patterns of education and its provision are less and less suitable for facing the twenty first century The patterns and modes of communication have changed radically in a few years and those changes are quickening in pace The economic context has been transformed affecting the skills and knowledge needed for employment The social world of young people raises fresh demands hopes and fears A global recession has affected young people disproportionately making quality of life and self fulfilment ever more difficult to attain In addressing learning and the learners first and foremost the book will argue for a wider vision of learning and a more varied pattern of provision Old structures must give way to new
