THE EXPEDITION 1,000 PROJECT

Dave Cornthwaite has big plans: to complete 25 separate journeys, each over 1000 km long, as part of his Expedition 1,000 project. But he isn't using cars, buses or planes: all of the 25 forms of transport he uses aren't motorised. He also hopes to raise £1,000,000 for charity.

His journey began in 2004 when he completed 11 journeys and another nine were planned. His first trip was in 2004, when he cycled over 5823 km across Australia on a dismount. It was the longest, slowest journey ever made. In 2007, he made a tandem bike with a friend from Newcastle, Canada, on a voyage in the US and then travelled for three months down the Atlantic by Runby boat as well, spending much of the time engaged in his journey. He even had a partner in the boat.

His eight journeys over about Europe on an elliptical bike, which looks like an exercise bike and running machine, where the rider stands and pedals. On his last trip, Cornthwaite travelled Europe from Germany to the UK. But before he left, he let the public vote on what mode for the kind of transport he used and chose the one with the most votes.

One of Cornthwaite's most recent trips involved riding through China in the downy on a White Swan. He was on a 1000 km journey to the west from Norway to Finland. It was a long and peaceful journey over 1000 km at about 15 km an hour.

His journeys have not been without problems. Once he was caught up by a 'blackout' in London in the US, when a spreading power loss left him stuck. In his vehicle, which is the only one he has, he had to go to the power station to get the power back on. As well as bad weather, Cornthwaite met a terrible accident in 2012, a 58-day, 1817 km cycle about the Murray River in the US. He was the last day, he had set some more than 100 miles at one time. Arriving at a 10 km distance, he fell off the expedition's bike. He traveled the first 240 km, and just nine miles and a few days after he was in 1000 km. In the last few days, the accident was prevented. And his body was close to 1000 km.

Cornthwaite's first job as a designer was as a graphic designer in a company in England. After he had his first university, he had a regular, regular job, a nice house and a good lifestyle. He was a successful person. He started to do things in a different way. On his journey, he explained that in 2012, he suddenly realised that every day was the same and he felt he had become lazy.

He promised to change his life from that point on. And he did.
