Language, Cognition and Gender Alan Garnham, Jane Oakhill, Lisa von Stockhausen, Sabine Sczesny, 2016-08-08 Gender inequality remains an issue of high relevance and controversy in society Previous research shows that language contributes to gender inequality in various ways Gender related information is transmitted through formal and semantic features of language such as the grammatical category of gender through gender related connotations of role names e.g. manager secretary and through customs of denoting social groups with derogatory vs neutral names Both as a formal system and as a means of communication language passively reflects culture specific social conditions In active use it can also be used to express and potentially perpetuate those conditions The questions addressed in the contributions to this Frontiers Special Topic include how languages shape the cognitive representations of gender how features of languages correspond with gender equality in different societies how language contributes to social behaviour towards the sexes how gender equality can be promoted through strategies for gender fair language use These questions are explored both developmentally across the life span from childhood to old age and in adults The contributions present work conducted across a wide range of languages including some studies that make cross linguistic comparisons Among the contributors are both cognitive and social psychologists and linguists all with an excellent research standing The studies employ a wide range of empirical methods from surveys to electro physiology The papers in the Special Topic present a wide range of complimentary studies which will make a substantial contribution to understanding in this important area Resources in Education ,1983
