Academic Autoethnographies Daisy

Pillay, Inbanathan Naicker, Kathleen Pithouse-Morgan, 2016-02-10 Academic Autoethnographies Inside Teaching in Higher Education invites readers to experience autoethnography as a challenging complex and creative research methodology that can produce personally professionally and socially useful understandings of teaching and researching in higher education The peer reviewed chapters offer innovative and perspicacious explorations of interrelationships between personal autobiographies lived educational experiences and wider social and cultural concerns across diverse disciplines and university contexts This edited book is distinctive within the existing body of autoethnographic scholarship in that the original research presented has been done in relation to predominantly South African university settings This research is complemented by contributions from Canadian and Swedish scholars The sociocultural educational and methodological insights communicated in this book will be valuable for specialists in the field of higher education and to those in other academic domains who are interested in self reflexive transformative and creative research methodologies and methods This book illuminates how autoethnography can engage authors and researchers from varied epistemological backgrounds in a reflexive multilogue about who they are and what they do The creative representations of the lived experience of doing autoethnography sets the book apart both methodologically and theoretically revealing how rigor and critical distance can serve to position autoethnography not only as a personal self development tool but a tradition and method in its own right Hyleen Mariaye Associate Professor Mauritius Institute of Education Mauritius This compelling book foregrounds autoethnography as an innovative and creative research methodology to generate reflexive sociological understandings of teaching and researching across disciplines in higher education Rich evocative and authentic accounts reveal unique possibilities for the transformation of teaching learning and research at personal professional and socio cultural levels Nithi Muthukrishna Professor Emerita University of KwaZulu Natal South Africa

Public Art in South Africa Kim

Miller, Brenda Schmahmann, 2017-10-16 How does South Africa deal with public art from its years of colonialism and apartheid How do new monuments address fraught histories and commemorate heroes of the struggle Across South Africa statues commemorating figures such as Cecil Rhodes have provoked heated protests while new works commemorating icons of the liberation struggle have also sometimes proved contentious In this lively volume Kim Miller Brenda Schmahmann and an international group of contributors explore how works in the public domain in South Africa serve as a forum in which important debates about race gender identity and nationhood play out Examining statues and memorials as well as performance billboards and other temporal modes of communication the authors of these essays consider the implications of not only the exposure but also erasure of events and icons from the public domain Revealing how public visual expressions articulate histories and memories they explore how such works may serve as a forum in which tensions surrounding race gender identity or nationhood play out

Human-Centered Software Engineering - Integrating Usability in the Software Development Lifecycle Ahmed Seffah, Jan Gulliksen, Michel C. Desmarais, 2006-06-26 Human Centered Software Engineering Bridging HCI

Usability and Software Engineering From its beginning in the 1980 s the eld of human computer interaction HCI has beende ned as a multidisciplinary arena By this I mean that there has been an explicit recognition that distinct skills and perspectives are required to make the whole effort of designing usable computer systems work well Thus people with backgrounds in Computer Science CS and Software Engineering SE joined with people with backgrounds in various behavioral science disciplines e g cognitive and social psychology anthropology in an effort where all perspectives were seen as essential to creating usable systems But while the eld of HCI brings individuals with many background disciplines together to discuss a common goal the development of useful usable satisfying systems the form of the collaboration remains unclear Are we striving to coordinate the varied activities in system development or are we seeking a richer collaborative framework In coordination Usability and SE skills can remain quite distinct and while the activities of each group might be critical to the success of a project we need only insure that critical results are provided at appropriate points in the development cycle Communication by one group to the other during an activity might be seen as only minimally necessary In collaboration there is a sense that each group can learn something about its own methods and processes through a close partnership with the other

Communication during the process of gathering information from target users of a system by usability professionals would not be seen as so thing that gets in the way of the essential work of software engineering professionals Proceedings of the South African Information Security Multi-Conference Nathan Clarke, Steven Furnell, Rossouw Von Solms, University of Plymouth. Centre for Security, Communications and Network Research, 2011-02 Information Technology in

Environmental Engineering Jorge Marx Gómez, Brenda Scholtz, 2016-02-04 This book presents new concepts as well as practical applications and experiences in the field of information technology for environmental engineering The book has three main focus areas firstly it shows how information technologies can be employed to support natural resource management and conservation environmental engineering scientific simulation and integrated assessment studies Secondly it demonstrates the application of computing in the everyday practices of environmental engineers natural scientists economists and social scientists And thirdly it demonstrates how the complexity of natural phenomena can be approached using interdisciplinary methods where computer science offers the infrastructure needed for environmental data collection and management scientific simulations decision support documentation and reporting The book collects selected papers presented at the 7th International Symposium on Environmental Engineering held in Port Elizabeth South Africa in July 2015 It discusses recent success stories in eco informatics promising ideas and new challenges from the interdisciplinary
